

Ike Sees No Panacea for Latin America

Would Lead Only To Disillusionment, President States

Dorado, Puerto Rico — President Eisenhower today called the problems of Latin America immense but rejected any idea of a U.S. master plan for solution.

In reporting on his Latin American tour, Eisenhower said the problems of that area "must be answered soon and effectively." But he added:

Voice Husky

"Panacea proposals, facile solutions, will lead only to disillusionment."

Eisenhower, addressing a Caribbean regional meeting of the American Assembly, in a very husky voice, had increasing difficulty as he went along in his speech and finally looked up from his text and remarked:

"If I have to apologize for my voice, I could do so by saying I left most of it in South America."

After Eisenhower concluded, one of his aides told newsmen the president "picked up a lot of dust" on his South American visit. He said the dust left the president with a good deal of huskiness in speaking. Snyder said the chronic bronchitis from which the president suffers was not involved.

The president wants to get in a round of golf today, too.

Reds Protest Bonn Plan for Spanish Bases

Moscow — The Soviet government protested to West Germany today against any plan to establish supply and training bases in Spain.

The protest was contained in a note handed to West German Ambassador Hans Kroll today by Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin.

Contents of the note were not immediately disclosed but the Russians called attention to public reports that the Germans were negotiating with Spain for supply and training bases, and suggested such activity was a threat to peace.

Danes, Norwegians Criticized

The Soviet press has been full of denunciations of the proposed bases in Spain, as well as elsewhere.

A writer in Pravda today assailed Denmark and Norway, accusing them of permitting German bases to be established on their soil. The article demanded in effect whether the Danes and Norwegians had forgotten Hitler.

"Denmark and Norway are viewed with special interest by the West German revenge seekers who already now are presenting territorial claims to neighboring states," said Pravda, in an article signed by Observer.

This signature gives evidence of substantial official approval of the article.

Huge Drifts Tie Up Eastern Area in 1960's Worst Storm

Broadway in New York, usually white with its blaze of lights, is almost solid white today under a snow storm that left more than six inches. A pedestrian is shown with both arms laden with packages as a worker tries to clear snow near an intersection. Jack Dempsey's place is at the upper left.

80 Deaths Across Nation, Traffic Snarled, Many Schools and Firms Close

New York — Winter's most vicious storm — the worst in many years for some areas — piled up mountainous snowdrifts and staggered the activities of millions in the northeastern states today.

As it swept through the northeast with the same fury previously unleashed on much of the nation, it left a trail of at least 80 deaths across the country.

Thousands of schools were closed. Hundreds of business firms were forced to shut down. Auto, bus, rail and air travel was hard hit.

Stalled cars, many buried under mounting drifts, dotted roads and highways and made snowplow work difficult.

The storm began to let up around dawn today after a 24-hour siege in the New York City area, one of the hardest hit. In fact, New York got its worst snowfall since 1948, when nearly 17 inches of snow fell in the third worst storm on record.

Buses Jammed
As of 7 a. m. today, the official measurement was 14.2 inches. Little more was expected.

Millions of New Yorkers, who went through a grim struggle to get home from work late yesterday, faced almost equal troubles trying to get back on the job today.

Crowds far greater than could be handled sought to board buses and subways. To add to the difficulties, parts of all three New York subways were out of operation during the morning rush hours.

Similar tribulations were experienced by both city and country people all over the northeast.

In the New York metropolitan area, thousands who could not make it home spent the night in hotel rooms — when they could get them — cots in Red Cross shelters and benches in crowded railroad stations. Others dozed fitfully in their marooned cars.

Cafes Thronged
As breakfast time came, many restaurants were thronged as never before.

Although the storm was not a blizzard, the resemblance was close. The avalanche of snow was thrown about the landscape by gale winds in temperatures far below freezing.

Some places as far south as Pennsylvania measured 30 inches. On Long Island the depth was 23 inches. Drifts four and five feet high were not uncommon.

The famous blizzard of 1888 dumped 21.9 inches of snow on New York. The worst snowfall of all time, 25.8 inches, came in 1947.

255 Received Payola, FTC Head States

Washington — The chairman of the federal trade commission testified today that payola has been lavished on 255 disc jockeys or other broadcasting station personnel in more than 56 cities in 26 states.

FTC Chairman Earl W. Kintner gave these figures to the house legislative oversight subcommittee in reporting what his agency has done to crack down on under-the-table payments for plugs for phonograph records.

Kintner also said FTC files "indicate that at least seven radio station licensees have received similar payments."

Although Kintner didn't say so, this would be a violation of federal law which requires stations to identify all paid commercials they broadcast.

Describes "Plugola"
Kintner also told of another practice in the broadcasting field which he dubbed "plugola."

As the result of an FTC study, Kintner said: "We have docketed for formal investigation the plugola practices of eight firms which appear to solicit a cross segment of American industry to buy hidden plugs or commercials on regularly sponsored television programs." He didn't name the eight firms.

Doerfer Spent 6 Nights on Radio-TV Executive's Yacht

Asserts Previous Statement Result of Misunderstanding

Washington — FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer told the Associated Press today he spent about six nights aboard a yacht owned by radio and TV executive George B. Storer while vacationing in Florida last month.

Doerfer said a previous statement he made to an AP reporter — that his visits aboard the Storer yacht were limited to a bridge game and a brief fishing trip — was the result of a misunderstanding.

The chief of the federal communications commission made his new statement in advance of an afternoon date to testify before the legislative oversight subcommittee.

Stayed at Dock
Concerning his previous statement, Doerfer, a former chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service commission, asserted:

"I talked with the AP reporter over the phone in the late evening after I had been on the phone for a long time. When he called, his question was whether I had been on a 7-day cruise with Storer. My answer was no."

Doerfer explained that during his overnight stays the yacht was not on the high seas but was tied up at the dock.

He said he spent about 16 days in Florida, and went on: "In the daytime, we played bridge, and on occasion I stayed on board the yacht. The only time I slept on board, it was tied up at the dock. Once, north of Key Largo, there were rough seas and high wind and we were 'socked in' for two days. This was on an inland waterway. We were never on the high seas."

"My Wisconsin friends and I hired a boat for a fishing trip and I paid my share of the expense."

"I do not feel obligated to Storer. There is no adjudicatory proceeding pending concerning his company."

(Webster's dictionary defines the word "adjudicate" as: "to determine judicially; try and decide; adjudge.")

In response to a specific question about how many nights he spent aboard the yacht "Lazy Girl," Doerfer said: "I didn't keep books. About six nights is right."

Score Waste in Military Buying

Washington — Comptroller Gen. Joseph Campbell and staff members of a senate-house committee have filed separate complaints of many millions of dollars of waste in military buying and stock keeping.

The comptroller general, in a report to congress, centered on $607 million worth of navy planes and radar which he described as "incapable of accomplishing their designated missions."

He referred to 304 F-4U twin-jet all-weather fighters costing $417,200,000; 149 T-2V single engine jet trainers at $139 million; and $51,600,000 worth of radar equipment intended to spot submarines, even submerged, at long range range.

Heavy Loss Results in Roofing Building Fire

Waukegan, Ill. — Fire swept through a big roofing building of the Johns-Manville product corporation plant yesterday. A company official said the damage would be at least $1 million and could reach as much as $5 million. The fire broke out in the 600-foot long, 300-foot wide, one and one-half story building near Lake Michigan.

Executed as Spy For Communists

Taipei, Formosa — The Chinese nationalists today announced the execution of a former social affairs officer in Chiang Kai-shek's army on charges of spying for the Peiping communist regime.

The Formosa military command said Hsu Hung-tao, 54, went over to the reds before Chiang fled the mainland and had operated as a spy since 1951, working out of Hong Kong.

He was assigned to report on Chinese-American military cooperation and to sow mistrust between the allies on Formosa, the announcement said.

Famous TV Pair Separates

Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz In Divorce Agreement

Hollywood — Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, television's most popular married couple, are in the divorce courts today, victims of too much success.

The red-haired comedienne, often called the greatest female clown, sued her Cuban tycoon in nearby Santa Monica yesterday. Her charge was the usual Hollywood complaint — mental cruelty.

Her action confirmed a fact which had been known in the movie colony for months. In her suit, she said the couple separated Feb. 26, 1959, after 19 years and 3 months of married life.

Denied Separation
During the year of separation, the two denied any rift in the marriage. One close friend explained why:

"The Desilu television empire is so vast that it's taken a team of Philadelphia lawyers a year to work out a settlement. There was nothing else they could do but deny that there was a break up."

The two even filmed several "I Love Lucy" shows together in that time. The last was filmed in January and of that one, Vivian Vance, who plays Lucy's sidekick, said prophetically just the other day: "We did the last Lucy in

Ask Patrol to Keep Red Fishermen Away

Juneau, Alaska — A resolution asking that the United States patrol its continental shelf with armed vessels to keep Russian fishing ships away was introduced in the Alaska legislature Thursday.

The memorial by State Sen. Lester Bronson of Nome would declare the shelf off limits to all nations.

31 Days Under Ice

Skipper Tells About Nuclear Sub Cruise

BY LT. CMDR. J. H. NICHOLSON
(Commander of the USS Sargo)

Pearl Harbor, Hawaii — The two most significant things about our voyage are the length of time spent under ice—31 days—and smashing our way through three feet thick ice.

(The nuclear-powered submarine USS Sargo returned to Pearl Harbor yesterday after an under-ice winter exploration of the Arctic basin, including the North pole. The Sargo spent a total of 31 days under the Arctic ice, surfaced 20 times through ice up to three feet thick, and logged over 6,000 miles. Nicholson was awarded the legion of merit.

It means that three feet thick ice no longer is a problem. It means there are so many more surfacing opportunities in the Arctic than we had previously known.

Describes Ocean Floor

We found that the ocean floor in the Arctic is flat and muddy. That there is fish. We found a shrimp. We found tremendous ice ridges, fast moving currents and extremely uniform area beneath the ice.

The temperatures under the ice are fairly uniform, too. The average thickness of Arctic ice is about 10 feet. The coldest weather we experienced — minus 40 degrees — came when we surfaced off the Canadian archipelago just off Ellef Ringnes island.

There were no psychological problems with the crew. We left Pearl Harbor Jan. 18 and encountered first ice near St. Mathew island on Jan. 25.

We began the transit through the Bering sea. It had

Blaze Smolders in Straw

Smoke Routs 10 Guests At Motel in Chilton

Chilton — Ten guests at the Thunderbird motel here were routed from their rooms late Thursday night when smoke from a fire in the proprietors' living quarters poured through the building's heating and ventilating system.

Chilton volunteer firemen rushed to the motel's Chestnut street location about 11:20 p.m. Heavy smoke at first hampered their efforts but they managed to isolate the blaze in a 40-foot mobile home attached to the rear of the motel office. It is used by Mr. and Mrs. Elton Meyer as their living quarters.

Fire Chief Norbert Sturm said the cause of the fire seemed to be a shorted electrical heating unit used to prevent freezing of water pipes running into the trailer. The house trailer's sides and the area beneath it were packed with straw bales for insulation. The fire quickly spread to the straw and smoldered in the floor and walls of the trailer.

Mrs. Meyer discovered the fire when she was awakened by the smoke.

Firemen were forced to don masks before entering the building.

Actual fire damage should not exceed $1,500, Meyer said, but with smoke and water damage the figure would run higher.

The motel guests were able to return to their rooms. They suffered only the discomfort of the cold and the smoke tainted rooms.

Pestilence Threat In Moroccan City

Weary Refugees Stream From Agadir as Workers Continue Search for Quake Survivors

Agadir, Morocco —(AP)— Weary refugees streamed away from Agadir today as pestilence threatened to sweep the quake-shattered city.

Amid the stench of death, rescue workers continued searching for survivors who might be trapped in the ruins.

The Moroccan government announced that 2,964 dead had been buried in graves hastily dug in the rubble of the Atlantic resort. But that figure did not include uncounted numbers of graves filled during the confused hours following the two earthquakes and tidal wave Monday night.

Fear 6,000 Dead
Moroccan officials feared that 6,000 of the city's 40,000 residents may have died in the disaster, but it was apparent that the exact toll would never be known.

At least 3,200 persons were injured, 1,200 of them seriously. Some estimates of the injured ran to 5,000.

The government ordered Agadir evacuated in the face of the threat of pestilence. Several cases of typhoid fever already have been reported among the predominantly Moslem population.

Moroccan troops cordoned off the wreckage. No one but rescue personnel carrying special passes were allowed inside. Newsmen also were barred.

The ruined city was sprayed with disinfectant. Its pungent odor mixed with the overpowering, sickly sweet smell of bodies buried in the rubble and decaying in the 85-degree heat.

Rescue squads wearing gauze masks entered new sections of the ruins. Although three days had passed since Agadir crumbled, rescue hopes were strengthened by the finding Thursday of 20 persons still alive in the wreckage.

One of those rescued was a Frenchwoman who gave birth to a boy several hours after she was pulled from the ruins of her home.

Use 68 Planes

Sixty-eight French and U. S. military planes kept up a round-the-clock airlift from a nearby French air base, taking injured and unhurt survivors to other Moroccan cities and bringing in supplies. More than 3,000 persons, most of them French or other foreigners, had been evacuated by air.

Three tent cities were set up in the surrounding countryside for 10,000 other evacuees, mostly Moslems. Thousands more plodded away from the area on foot, or by horse or mule, seeking refuge elsewhere.

More help was on the way today. U. S. air force planes were bringing in 1,000 Moroccan troops. The French aircraft carrier Lafayette was carrying 1,500 French sailors from Casablanca. The U. S. cruiser Newport News, anchored in the bay, put its entire crew at the disposal of the Moroccan government.

A water purification unit from the U. S. army engineers began operations in Agadir Thursday. It is able to supply five tons of much-needed drinking water per hour.

A U. S. air force spokesman said that 3,600 tents, 12 tons of food, 1,500 beds and 3,500 blankets have been flown in by American planes so far.

UW Head Says Students Right In Demonstrating

Madison — (AP)— President Conrad A. Elvehjem of the University of Wisconsin Thursday told 300 demonstrating students they were correct in protesting racial discrimination at lunch counters in the South.

"I share your concern for the preservation and extension of human rights and applaud your intellectual rather than emotional approach to protesting violations of such rights," Elvehjem said.

The students held a campus rally, complete with signs and speeches, after canceling plans for a march on the capitol. Last Saturday about 30 students picketed a downtown variety chain store. Both demonstrations were orderly. A statement from Gov. Gaylord Nelson that was read to the students said, "You students... have shown a commendable concern for human rights and the dignity of the individual. I think this demonstration is healthy and I wish you success."

'Project Chariot' Plan Further Study On Blast in Arctic

Juneau, Alaska —(AP)— The Atomic Energy commission said today its "Project Chariot," a plan to make a huge excavation on the Arctic coast with an atomic blast, will be under study for at least another year.

Plans for further study of the project were announced by a 3-man AEC team which arrived here Thursday night en route to the far north to talk with native village councils from Kotzebue to Barrow.

The three AEC representatives hope to allay fears, expressed by some of the predominantly native population, that the project might be dangerous to life in the remote, sparsely-populated Arctic.

The project is part of "Operation Plowshare," the AEC's program for the peaceful use of nuclear energy.

Expect Big Nixon Ballot In Primary

Margin May Be Bigger Than '56 Ike New Hampshire Vote

Concord, N.H. —(AP)— Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire predicted today that Vice President Nixon will roll up a bigger preferential vote in the state's primary election next week than President Eisenhower received in the 1956 election.

"I could be dead wrong," Powell said, "but I think Nixon will do better than Eisenhower did four years ago."

New Hampshire Republicans 58,484 votes for Eisenhower in the "beauty contest" section of the ballot in the last presidential primary.

Lukewarm Interest
It appears that there is only lukewarm interest around the state in Tuesday's election.

On the Republican side, much of it evaporated when New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller did not come in to challenge Nixon.

Similarly, Sen. John F. Kennedy has what is considered only token opposition in the Democratic contest.

For a particular reason, Republicans and Democrats alike are working hard to combat the apparent apathy with 11th-hour efforts to get out a big vote. The reason is this:

No Cross Voting
New Hampshire voters are not permitted to "cross over."

Democrats vote only for Democratic candidates and Republicans for Republicans.

Consequently, there will be no direct test of strength between Nixon and Kennedy.

However, Kennedy's backers are striving to produce an indirect victory for him.

Republican normally cast twice as many votes, or more, than the Democrats in New Hampshire. If Kennedy can narrow that traditional 2-to-1 gap, his supporters will point to it as evidence of his vote-pulling power.

Nixon's backers—who constitute most of the Republican "brass" in the state—are aiming to maintain or increase that traditional margin. They want Tuesday's election, the first of 16 state presidential primaries in the nation, to squelch any remaining Nixon-can-win talk.

So they have launched a state-wide telephone campaign on his behalf. They report that Republican dinners and political gatherings have been well attended—and that the chances of a spectacular showing for Rockefeller are slim.

Wrightstown Loses C and NW Depot, Keeps Flag Service

Madison —(AP)— The Chicago and North Western railway was authorized Thursday by the public service commission to discontinue its custodian service and remove its depot at Wrightstown.

However, the PSC directed the road to continue less than carload freight service and flagstop service of trains 149 and 217 from Appleton to Green Bay.

Centenarian Teacher Dies in California

Oakland, Calif. —(AP)— A one-time Boston school teacher who was born before the Civil war died just one week before her 102nd birthday.

Miss Mary Idora Adams, who was born in 1858 in Greenfield, Mass., died Wednesday at the home of her grandniece, Mrs. Arlington Johnson.

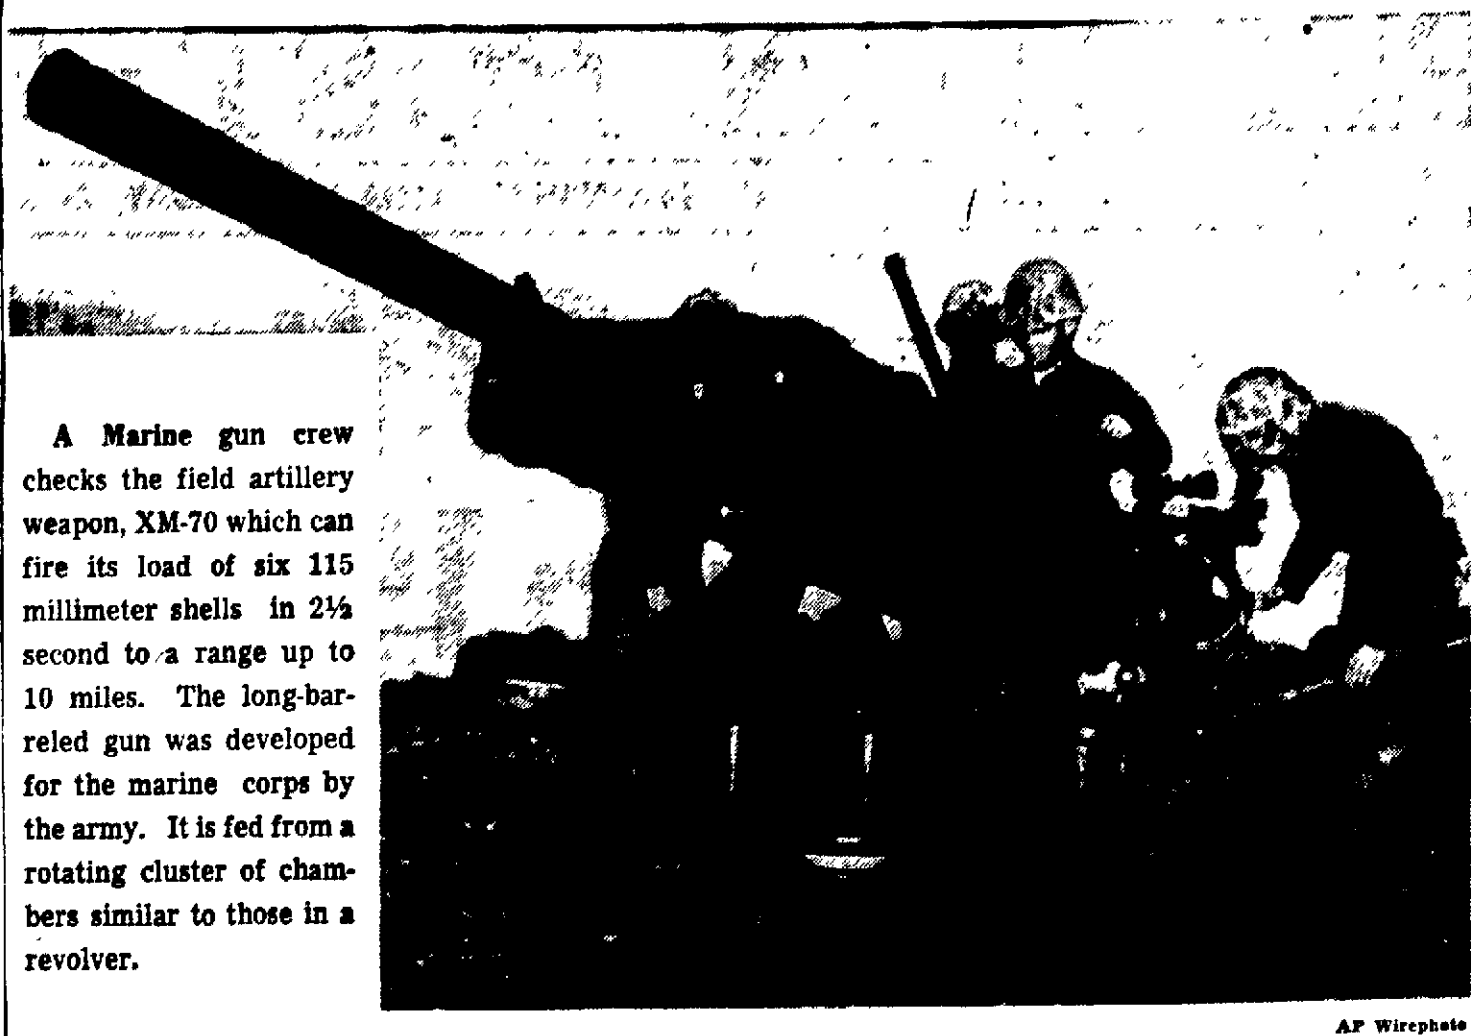

She had taught for nearly 50 years in Boston.

Miss Adams' ashes will be returned to the family plot at Bernardstown, Mass. The funeral will be Monday at the Little Chapel of the Flowers in Berkeley.

G. Mennen Williams Will Not Seek 7th Term as Michigan Governor

Detroit —(AP)— Gov. E. Mennen Williams, Michigan's chief executive for 12 years, says he won't run again but will toil for world peace, as vice president if he gets the chance.

Williams, 69, told a radio-TV audience last night he hopes to serve "in some public office where I could be effective."

His decision to step out after six consecutive terms, a record unmatched in the nation's history, dismayed some of his close friends and supporters but surprised no one.

At a news conference, he said he plans to stay out of any fight to succeed him in Michigan.

Vice Presidency
He said he would be "pleased and honored" to be nominated for the vice presidency, but "I don't foresee that at the present moment and I'm not actively engaged in pursuit of the nomination."

Williams, a sort of boy wonder when he first won office but now presenting a graying and matured appearance, said he had nothing specific in mind as to the public office in which he could advance world peace. But he agreed a national ticket, cabinet or foreign service post might fill the bill. However, he would toil for peace "as a private citizen if that is the role providence has assigned."

The governor said the atom bomb has made a just and lasting peace "the great, overriding imperative of today."

"As a consequence, I am convinced that the greatest challenge to anyone in public life today lies in the advancement of peace—and in the supporting fields of national economic growth, education and the elevation of human dignity everywhere in the world."

He said he had made up his mind against a seventh term while traveling with his wife in the Holy Land and central Europe last fall.

Williams said he had to resist strong efforts by friends to get him to run again.

State Senators In Agreement

Washington —(AP)— Both Sens. William Proxmire (D) and Alexander Wiley (R) of Wisconsin said today a civil rights bill should contain voting guarantees to all qualified citizens.

Proxmire said it is equally important the bill contains a provision authorizing the U. S. attorney general to protect the civil rights of persons when they petition for such a move.

Wiley said his views on other provisions, aside from voting guarantees, would depend upon what develops during the filibuster being waged in the Senate on the issue.

Both Wisconsin senators have stayed close to the senate chamber during the ordeal which began Monday.

Charge Brillion Marine With Assault of Chicago Woman

Chicago —(AP)— Lawrence Zuelke, a 17-year-old Marine from Brillion, Wis., was charged Thursday with assault to commit rape of a 24-year-old telephone switchboard operator.

Zuelke told authorities he was waiting for a plane at Midway airport to return him to his base at Barstow, Calif., Wednesday night when he saw the woman and followed her.

Police quoted him as saying he attacked the woman but was frightened away by a resident of the neighborhood.

'Happy Pill' Will Give You More Drive and Clearer Head

Los Angeles —(AP)— Mad at your boss?

Would you like to have a clearer head and more push to get things done?

What you need is Librium, a new "happy pill" described at a University of Southern California symposium attended Thursday by 400 physicians and specialists in internal medicine.

The drug, which has just come on the market, has been used by more than 2,000 doctors on 20,000 patients in the United States since its discovery a year ago.

Dr. S. P. Wise, assistant clinical professor of medicine at Baylor university, Houston, Texas, told the symposium the drug helps relieve the pain of angina pectoris and prevents epileptic seizures.

Dr. Wise said it also keeps patients from getting angry during their day's work, improves their judgment and clear thinking and adds to their drive to get more work done.

Chemical name for the drug is methaminodiazepoxide. It can be obtained only on a doctor's prescription.

Only ill effects noted so far are a temporary drowsiness and mild muscular incoordination, the physician said.

Librium was first tested on animals in the Boston and San Diego zoos and showed remarkable quieting effects. At the San Diego zoo, a wild European lynx which always threw itself against the bars of its cage when anyone approached became as quiet as a house cat and could be petted by its keeper. One capsule took effect in two hours and lasted more than four hours.

Final Day in Service for Elvis Presley

Ft. Dix, N.J. —(AP)— Sgt. Elvis Presley begins his last full day as a soldier today with an orientation lecture — one of the last formalities before the rock 'n' roll idol returns to show business.

The 24-year-old singer will be instructed with 200 other men on the rights and obligations of a veteran. During the rest of the day, he'll face sheafs of papers to sign.

Tomorrow morning, Presley officially becomes a civilian when he picks up his final sergeant's monthly pay check of $145.24. Then he's free to go out and make $850,000 this year, according to his manager. He will appear on a television show and in three movies.

The swivel-hipped entertainer spent a quiet night as the snow piled up around the army separation center here after Presley's hectic homecoming from active duty in Germany.

Presley told reporters and squealing teenage admirers he would give rock 'n' roll everything he had "as long as people keep appreciating it."

But he added to the 50 newsmen and fans who braved the snowy weather to meet him: "My ambition now is to become a good actor."

Asked for his reaction to the fans who eagerly awaited his return, Presley said: "If they weren't there, I'd re-up (reenlist) in the army."

3 Children Die In Fire of Home

Waterford, Conn. —(AP)— Three children perished early today when their isolated frame home burst into flames. Their parents and two other children escaped with their lives.

Dead were 18-month-old Dwight Race, his brother Theodore, 21, and his sister Alberta, 31.

Mrs. John G. Race and an infant child were burned critically. Race, 55, and his 4-year-old son Johnny were not injured.

Police Joseph Harris quoted Race as saying Johnny woke his parents early this morning, screaming that a kitchen oil stove had exploded.

Firefighters in this eastern Connecticut town were hampered by huge snowdrifts in their efforts to reach the scene.

The plane, disintegrating in an explosion, dug a crater 50 feet around and 20 feet deep and showered U.S. Highway 101 with flaming debris.

Since the 4-lane highway was undermined and cracked, traffic was backed up for miles for hours. The outer lane will be closed for days, the state announced.

Janich winery, 100 feet away, lost its roof and windows and was splattered with oil and mud.

Gilroy is about 70 miles south of San Francisco.

Plane Explodes Near Highway

Gilroy, Calif. —(AP)— An abandoned navy jet fighter dived into the ground alongside a heavily traveled highway Thursday, exploding like a bomb.

No one was injured but the blast shattered three automobiles, took the roofs off a winery and a farm labor dwelling and shattered walls and windows.

The pilot, Lt. (JG) Allen G. Anderson, 22, of Moffett naval air station, parachuted to safety two miles away. He said an explosion in the cockpit blew away the canopy while he was traveling 400 miles an hour. The terrific wind made the plane unmanageable and he rejected.

Minneapolis Men Die in Crash

Milwaukee —(AP)— Two Minneapolis men were killed Thursday, raising Wisconsin's 1960 highway toll to 105 compared with 111 on this same day last year.

Weldon K. Wheeler, 50, Minneapolis, was killed Thursday when the car he was driving struck a bridge on Crawford county trunk C about five miles east of Ferryville. Harold Rethlake, 47, also of Minneapolis, a passenger, died at a Prairie du Chien hospital shortly afterward.

Sees Socialism Threat by Labor

Economist Cites Union Power, But Predicts Its Slow Decline

"The United States will wind up with state socialism within five to ten years unless there is a decline in the centralized power of labor unions," Ralph Ellis, chief economist for the Allen Bradley company, Milwaukee, predicted Thursday night.

Speaking on inflation and wage structure to 75 businessmen at a YMCA business and industry forum, Ellis said that because of the inflationary wage structure "we have priced ourselves out of the world market and are exporting jobs at an ever-increasing rate."

Ellis predicts however, a decline in labor power. He said the decline will be gradual and will not affect wage and salary structures for at least 20 years.

Cause of Inflation
It will be brought about, Ellis stated, by three factors. They are automation and a decreasing work force, public demands for government action to stabilize the wage structure, and a crackdown on labor racketeering. He added that racketeering is not typical of labor unions, but rather is typical of any organization where there is a concentration of power.

Ellis told the group that although the present inflationary spiral began in 1945 or 1946, the roots were laid in 1939.

Since 1939, he said, wages have increased four times.

One of the causes of the inflationary spiral, was adoption of a theory that all gains in production belong to labor and should be used to increase wages and salaries, he said.

Wages Control Prices
Juggling of fiscal and monetary policies to produce guaranteed prosperity and the "tremendous union power capable of forcing politicians to change the fiscal policy" were cited by Ellis as other causes of inflation.

"In the past wages were the result of prices, but now prices are the result of the wage structure," he declared.

Ellis emphasized he is not opposed to labor unions, but is opposed to concentration of power that permitted industry-wide control of wages, such as in the steel strike.

Businesses must either increase efficiency or reduce the number of workers if they are to prevent operating at a loss on a price scale dictated for entire industries, he said.

The per cent of the sales dollar spent for wages and salaries is exactly the same as it was 20 years ago, he said. Ideally, he said, there should have been a reduction of cost to the consumer and a steady wage structure when automation began to be utilized.

This would be a chain of events beginning with automation increasing efficiency. More efficiency requires fewer workers and warrants a layoff, the reduced wage payments could be applied to cost, reduced cost means increased demand, a greater demand means expansion and the creation of more jobs, he explained.

Instead of increased efficiency being used to reduce cost to the consumer, it is applied to the salary structure and therefore increases cost and causes inflation, he said.

Nixon's Endorsement Seen in California

Sacramento, Calif. — (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's bid for the presidency probably will win its first statewide GOP endorsement at a weekend convention of the California Republican assembly.

Some 500 delegates are expected to start arriving today for the 3-day meeting of the party's campaign organization.

The CRA executive committee endorsed Nixon last November. There is little doubt the state convention will confer its blessing on the Californian's candidacy.

This Pile of Rubble Is All that remains of a house in which four Negro men were sleeping Thursday when a tornado struck a small Negro settlement northwest of Orlando, Fla. The house was moved about 20 feet and the four were injured but released from a hospital after treatment for cuts. The twister injured two other persons in neighboring Lake county.

Drifts Tie Up East in Winter's Worst Storm

at mid-morning. It was not expected to ease up there until late today. Maine anticipated as much as 15 inches of snow before the end.

New York City was one vast tangle of traffic and confusion as weary suburbanites tried to make their way back to offices.

In the city's environs and Nassau county and Queens 12 deaths were caused by heart attacks while shoveling snow or plodding through the drifts. In Suffolk county on Long Island a man slipped and fell to his death while trying to board a moving train at a railroad station.

Schools Closed
Pennsylvania counted at least nine deaths as residents battled drifts up to 30 inches. In Maryland, weather-attributed deaths totaled at least five.

New York City was a scene of confusion yesterday. Education officials announced that public and parochial schools and municipal colleges would be closed today. Thousands of commuters were stranded overnight in Manhattan, although many factories and offices closed early in the day to give employees a chance to get home.

There just weren't enough transit facilities — drastically taxed and hampered by the snowfall — to get workers to their dwellings in New Jersey, Connecticut, Westchester county, and the farther reaches of Long Island. Virginia was blanketed by a 4-to-18-inch snowfall which was expected to last through the weekend. Most schools were shut down until Monday. Three deaths — one heart attack and two traffic fatalities — were attributed directly to the storm.

Hearings Delayed
The mountains of West Virginia got as much as 20 inches of snow. Maryland got 12 inches in some areas. At Washington, D.C., sessions of five house committees had to be postponed because members or witnesses were snow-bound away from the capital.

Airports at Washington, Philadelphia and New York practically gave up. At New York's Idlewild airport more than 200 flights were canceled. In Philadelphia all schools in the city and suburbs were closed. Hundreds of schools in New Jersey canceled classes.

The wind-driven storm blanketed Massachusetts, Rhode Island and southern Vermont and New Hampshire, with an expected 6-to-12-inch accumulation. Four persons died of heart attacks — all storm-attributed fatalities. As the storm hit Boston, Logan airport was closed to all traffic.

Last night the snow had reached depths of 12 inches in parts of Connecticut.

Conditions Improve
Nearly two feet of snow plastered portions of New Jersey, making it one of the worst storms to hit the state in years. Hotels were filled with motorists and commuters stranded by hazardous highways.

New York City had a better outlook for public transportation today. Officials for the railroads, subways and buses said they expected facilities to be in fairly good shape, although all cautioned there would be delays because of an expected increase in passengers.

Police asked people to leave cars at home. Crews worked through the night at the approaches of the Lincoln and Holland tunnels. The New York-bound tubes of the Lincoln tunnel were blocked for many hours yesterday

New Premier Sought in Italy

Rome — (AP) — President Giovanni Gronchi today asked Giovanni Leone, president of the chamber of deputies, to find a new premier for Italy.

Gronchi said his own talks with party leaders since premier Antonio Segni resigned Feb. 24 showed a "deeper examination" of party views was needed. He asked Leone to sound out parliamentary leaders.

Leone said he would report back to the president as soon as possible. Gronchi then might ask him to form a new government, or the president might name someone else.

Leone is a 51-year-old lawyer and a member of the Christian democrats, Italy's biggest party, which has headed all governments since World War II. He has been president of parliament's lower house since 1955.

Another Death Raises Airline Toll to 34

Shannon, Ireland — (AP) — Another death today raised to 34 the toll of the Alitalia airliner crash near Shannon airport just a week ago. Some of the 18 remaining survivors are still in critical condition.

Antonio Fragapant, an Italian, died in Barrington hospital in Limerick, the third survivor of the crash to succumb within the last 24 hours.

Father Giuseppe Cacioli, Italian monk who told rescue workers "do not worry about me — look after the others," died last night from burns. He was on his way to make one of his periodical preaching missions to Italian communities in the United States.

a depth of 21 1/2 fathoms, or 123 feet.

Our baptism of ice came when the ocean floor suddenly dropped to 160 feet, then began rising rapidly until we only had about five feet clearance between ice and ocean bottom. We just managed to ease over an uncharted peak — or what we then thought was a peak. It was in the Bering sea just before entering the Bering strait. The danger spot became known as "Tall Gonzales."

We maintained a speed of 8 knots, tried to surface several times, but couldn't quite make it. The ice was about 5 to 7 feet thick. We finally found an opening and burst through Jan. 31.

The weather was 29 degrees. Our SCUBA — (self contained underwater breathing apparatus) — divers put on their suits and inspected some of the pressure ridges. We were in a polynya — or a rapidly formed lake in thick ice which freezes over fast.

At Pole Feb. 9

We were sitting in 1-2 feet thick ice. The ice began to shift rapidly at a rate of about five feet per minute. This is probably where our plastic-domed bow was sheared off. The shift gave us an insight on how these polynyas are formed — through pressure and rafting of ice.

We left Feb. 3 and chose a trek unexplored before.

We reached the North pole Feb. 9 at 9:34 a. m. Honolulu time, circled the North pole in seven minutes — probably the fastest globe-circling voyage anyone has made.

We threw a Jacobs ladder over the sail (superstructure), and Harold Meier, of Honolulu, fondly known as 'Pineapple,' raised the Hawaiian state flag over the pole.

There was little wind. The temperature was minus 36 degrees. It was clear, although it was night all the time. It looked more like the Sahara desert.

Opened Post Office

We opened a post office. The submarine is carrying almost 20,000 pieces of mail. Each letter was canceled by a special stamp showing a submarine breaking through the ice. It bears the lettering "Sargo 583—North Pole 1960."

We controlled liberty for the men by taking only 20 cold suits with us. Watch was limited to one hour per man. Eye lashes freeze together up there.

We left the pole Feb. 10 and came up the next day in the heavy pressure ridge area. We

Charge Man for Misapplying Bank Funds

Miami — (AP) — Charges of misapplying $300,000 of bank funds have been filed against Keith Pigott, former president of the Everglades bank of Fort Lauderdale.

The FBI charged him Thursday and he was released on $10,000 bond. Preliminary hearing is set for today.

The FBI said Pigott sent a $300,000 cashier's check to a Chicago bank, indicating on his records the funds were a deposit to the credit of the Everglades bank.

Instead, said the FBI, the check actually was held by the Northern Trust company as collateral for a stock purchase by two Pittsburgh businessmen, John D. Simpson and A. L. Robinson, Jr.

Simpson and Robinson reportedly own controlling interest in the Everglades bank. Simpson is on the Everglades bank's board of directors.

The FBI did not say whether Simpson and Robinson were involved in the misapplication of funds. It said merely that Pigott was accused of sending the check for a personal reason. The reason was not defined.

Pigott resigned from the bank Wednesday, several days after an auditor of the federal deposit insurance commission examined the bank's books.

Grasshopper Saves Man From $30 Fine

Denver — (AP) — A grasshopper which landed on a motorist's nose was the subject of a superior court ruling Thursday.

The "hoper so distracted" Jay E. Shideler, last summer that his car smashed into the rear of a parked auto. A municipal court judge later fined Shideler $30.

Judge Mitchell B. Johns reversed the ruling. "One faced with a grasshopper in a sudden encounter should not be held responsible for erratic actions," he ruled.

had our first chance to look at the sail. There was little damage which we wielded...

We proceeded through the narrow passage between Alaska and Little Diomedes island. We ran into "Tall Gonzales" again at essentially the same depth. This indicated that "Tall Gonzales" is a ridge and not a peak. On Feb. 25 we surfaced for the twentieth time. We had been under ice 31 days and four hours...

The tremendous amount of data compiled by the scientists will have to be sifted and analyzed. It will undoubtedly give us a better understanding of the Arctic and far more accurate ice movement forecasts than we've ever had.

Lucille Ball Seeks Divorce From Arnaz

younger than his wife, has been living in Palm Springs. Miss Ball has been living in the couple's Beverly Hills mansion with their two children, Lucy Desiree, 9, and Desi IV, 7.

She said: "I've tried hard to be fair and solve our problems—but now I find it impossible to go on."

She added that the two will have joint custody of the children.

"We both love them very much," she said, "and Desi can see them as often as he likes."

He'll have to travel cross-country to do so, however, as Lucy has leased an apartment in New York City. She has signed for a Broadway musical in the fall.

Won't Fight Divorce

Arnaz said the divorce will be an amicable one. He will not contest it.

"We deeply regret that after long and serious consideration we have not been able to work out our problems. Lucy will pursue her career on television and I will continue my work as head of Desilu Productions."

The two met in 1940 while both were under contract to RKO studios. Lucy was the star of the movie "Too Many Girls" while Desi was cast as a bongo-playing Cuban — perfect type casting.

He later was fired from RKO, a studio he now owns jointly with his wife and a few stockholders.

Marriage "Gamble"

Lucy once called her marriage to Desi the greatest gamble of her life. "Desi's a Cuban," she once said, "and all Cubans gamble. They'll bet you which way the tide is going and give you first pick."

She often has voiced displeasure with Desi's love of the Las Vegas' crap tables.

But that same gambling instinct is what turned the wild Cuban bongo player into one of TV's most successful tycoons.

Lucy supplied most of the comedy on TV but Desi is the business brains of the team. When TV executives in 1950 approached her for a comedy series, she held out until they signed her husband as co-star. One sponsor asked:

"Who could buy a comedy series with a red-haired American housewife and a Cuban husband?" "I did," replied Lucy.

Peabody Manor — A Fine Community Project

The Visiting Nurse Association of Appleton is about to make a 50-year-old dream come true as it launches its $500,000 campaign to make possible the construction of a home for retired persons on the old Jefferson school site on W. Fifth street.

The home will be appropriately named Peabody Manor, after George F. Peabody who died in 1909, but whose extraordinary vision has sparked this fine project in his home town a half century later. In his will, which became effective only after the death of his daughter in the late 1950's, Peabody provided money for an "old ladies' home," with a requirement that 25 per cent of the gift must be held for endowment and a further requirement that the home must be located near the center of the city and "on a street car line." By the time of his daughter's death the original bequest had grown to over a quarter-million dollars; however, with today's construction costs and the need to build a home large enough to meet the requirements of our modern community, the VNA must raise another half-million dollars to make Peabody's dream come true.

Only in recent years has a substantial segment of the medical profession devoted much attention to the problems of old people; the study of this science, known as geriatrics, has brought about much new thinking regarding the care of the aging and the aged. Perhaps the most important new idea is that these people should not be shut away in a home out in the country somewhere, but should be encouraged to continue to take part in normal social life and community activities to the extent their condition makes it possible. Thus modern science has confirmed Peabody's idea that such a home should be located "near downtown and on a street car line," which was his way of saying, back in the early 1900's, that the home's residents should be so situated that they could still lead normal social and community lives.

An important aspect of the Peabody Manor project that some people may not fully understand is that it is not to be a home for the indigent; the reason is that the real need in our community today is to provide a place for people who, with social security plus their own savings, are moderately able to support themselves and pay their own way. (The county home at New London provides a reasonably good facility for the more unfortunate people who cannot do this.) Thus Peabody Manor is planned as a self-supporting institution; the VNA has wisely decided that in addition to the endowment withheld under the Peabody will's provisions it also will raise enough money to provide the first year's financing, so that it will not be necessary to come to the community again to raise operating funds.

With the construction of Peabody Manor, Appleton and the Fox Cities will be moving ahead to fill a need of which many other communities are only beginning to become dimly aware — the need to provide pleasant, well-planned places of residence for the increasing number of "senior citizens" in our society. The combination of George Peabody's vision and the VNA's energy and enthusiasm are providing the ingredients to make this possible.

A Check on the World Court

The United States Senate is currently conducting hearings on whether to repeal the Connally reservation to the treaty which provides us with membership in the International Court of Justice, the successor to the World Court which the U. S. never joined.

The reservation, dating back to 1946, reserves the right of the U. S. to determine whether a matter is "domestic" and therefore out of the Court's jurisdiction. In effect it makes a party in a dispute the authority upon whether the Court can judge, something quite contrary to our tradition of jurisprudence. Critics of the amendment point to the small number of cases which the Court handles, the similar reservations in treaties signed by most other member nations, and thus the practical limitation of "peace through law" which is the aim of most scholars and jurists.

Thirteen years ago the American Bar association passed a resolution favoring the repeal of the Connally reservation. This year, after long and heated debate, the resolution was upheld by the ABA but by a vote of 100-93. In Wisconsin, the state bar probably will take no official action since the matter is extremely controversial and members feel strongly on both sides. In general the state group's Committee on Peace Through Law seems to favor repeal.

And yet what sort of a Pandora's box will such a move throw open? The line between domestic and foreign issues is growing extremely fine as the late Sec. Dulles pointed out some years ago. The recent ridiculous action in the Chessman case, whereby, in effect, the fear of a mob in Uruguay halted the legitimate police power of a state in our nation reveals the confusion in some minds about national and international lines. It would be doubtful, for instance, that the International Court would decide that something happening in the Panama Canal Zone would be domestic and purely our own business. What about suits growing out of tariff restrictions or immigration regulations? How about interpretations of one of the silliest of modern documents, the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights?

Advocates of repeal insist that our action would force Russia to do the same and therefore open that country to International Court jurisdiction which in the long run would benefit everyone. But the weight of public opinion in the U.N. resolution condemning Russian action in Hungary moved no tanks out of Budapest. Does anyone actually believe that the International Court could bring the Soviet Union to terms because of its flagrant violations of the Genocide Treaty which it so enthusiastically signed?

Obviously this is a matter in which the propaganda value of our repeal has seemed to be more important to some segments of those urging reconsideration than the actual practical aspects. Obviously, too, this is something to be considered. And real world law, interpreted by a system of international courts is soundly envisioned as a solid way to world peace.

But it is doubtful that the time has yet come. With no means to enforce decisions of the court, its findings on issues of international tension have small value. And our adherence to the principles but not the real intention of the court would be a mockery merely to impress the uncommitted peoples of the world. In the long run, disillusion would wipe out any temporary benefits.

But Little Will Come of It

The United States has taken a commendatory offensive in the stalemate which continues about the fate of Berlin and the status of East Germany. Sec. of State Herter has proposed a plebiscite, supervised by the United Nations, in both parts of Germany to determine whether they prefer the Western or Russian proposal for a solution.

The Western plan, outlined at Geneva last summer, envisions the formation of an all-German government by a series of steps to which free elections are essential. Russia demands separate peace treaties with both sectors, a demilitarized Berlin and then a supposed hands-off policy of East and West to let the Germans decide for themselves what they want to do next.

Of course, Sec. Herter's plan is unlikely to get beyond the primary discussion stage. There are more people in West than East Germany, supervised secret elections might encourage supposed Communist followers to favor the Western plan, and besides Russia didn't propose the idea in the first place.

But by throwing out for discussion a proposal which sounds intelligent to those who actually favor some degree of self-determination, Sec. Herter again puts Russia on the defensive. After all, only a year ago Khrushchev rumbled that "every nation must decide for itself which social system suits it . . . nor do we object to the so-called free elections that are spoken about so much in Western countries, if the Germans of the two German states agree to conduct elections without the interference of a third party . . ."

There is so much emphasis upon public opinion in various world debates today that Sec. Herter's suggestion should bear propaganda fruit if not actual implementation. And it will help quiet down the Americans who are forever complaining that we do not take the idealistic offensive.

Railroads Soften Line To Unions

From The Durham (N.C.) Morning Herald

The nation's major railroads have offered the first indication that their tough bargaining line toward this year's labor contract negotiations is being subjected to revision.

Although representatives of the 164 major roads claim the steel industry's bargaining collapse meant nothing to them, they have backed up a long way on the economic line of their bargaining. From demanding a general 15-cent-an-hour cut in pay, rail industry negotiators have gotten around to offering one of the operating railroad brotherhoods a three per cent raise.

This may actually turn out to be a feint designed to put rail management in a stronger position on the railroads' special version of the work rules dispute. But it suggests the companies are facing up to the fact that pay cuts and the reversal of long established work practices promise more of a fight than the nation is willing to put up with in a basic industry now.

The steel industry's results may mean nothing to the railroads, but they mean a whole lot to a disgruntled public and the election-sensitive national administration which took the toughness out of the steel industry's bargaining stand.

Cites Figures Proving There are Fewer Farmers, Income Is Down

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am happy to see Sen. Hubert Humphrey's Food for Peace Plan is endorsed by Mrs. Eisenbraut. I have had many conversations with responsible persons since my letter appeared in your paper and the general consensus is to support this plan. However, I am somewhat dismayed to learn that she does not believe that the small farmers are, in effect, being forced from the land by the present farm policy.

My conclusion is based on an objective analysis of explanations and figures published by the Department of Agriculture and other government agencies which are actively concerned with the problem.

First, we should consider, as stated by Mrs. Eisenbraut, that 7 out of 10 farmers have jobs in the villages and cities. According to a 1954 study by the Census Bureau, 45 per cent of all farm operators have jobs off of the farm. A farm operator, as defined by the bureau, is anyone who operates three or more acres that produce at least $150 worth of commodities, or anyone who operates under three acres and has at least $150 of sales. It is easy to see that many of the farm operators considered in this study are not bona fide farmers, in the strict sense. It seems to follow then that most "real" farmers that hold outside jobs would be even less than the 45 per cent figure. A new 1959 survey is just being completed by the bureau but the 45 per cent figure will not be significantly affected.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Department of Commerce, the farm population since 1930 has decreased by 3.9 million or 15.5 per cent. I think that it is important to note that this rate is increasing. More farmers left the land in 1959 than did in 1950 or 1951 or any other previous year.

So far nothing has been said except people are leaving the farm and some people are augmenting their farm income by seeking additional non-farm employment. It is necessary to see why this is taking place, it will be easy then to understand why I say that the farmer is being forced from the land.

The University of Wisconsin recently reported that the per farm value in our area is approximately $40,000. Under ideal conditions this is no small sum for an individual farm family to carry. But the weight of the burden is even heavier if you look at what has happened to the farmer vis-a-vis prices and costs. Since 1952 farm prices in the U. S. have fallen 21 per cent. However, industrial goods are up 15 per cent, transportation charges are up 23 per cent and interest paid by farmers, per acre of land, is over twice the rate paid in 1952.

In Wisconsin, the net income of farmers for a six year period ending 1958 was a little in excess of $1 billion less than it would have been at the 1952 rate. A state by state breakdown for 1959 has not yet been released by the Department of Agriculture, but the national net farm income shows a decrease from $14.2 billion to $11.8 billion — a 16 per cent drop. In addition the department has predicted that during 1960 it will fall another ten per cent.

This, of course, means that net farm income in our state is due to be off over $200 million in 1960 as compared to 1952. This is $200 million less than will be at the disposal of Wisconsin farmers to pay their bills and buy new equipment — to be included in the National and state tax base.

With these facts in mind, I cannot see that the farmer

Under the Capital Dome
Tax Study Has Brought Problem Before People

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The citizens revenue study commission which is trying to find a practicable method of resolving the Wisconsin tax enigma has arrived at some positions which are conclusions, in effect, although it has not yet actually voted in a formal ballot.

It has found that property taxes are too high, and cannot be safely permitted to rise higher — on the whole in political or economic terms.

It has concluded that state and local financial problems are actually one, from which it may safely be concluded that local government fiscal independence will become less and less real as time goes on.

It has virtually concluded that the alternatives in the search for auxiliary revenues by the state boils down to the personal income tax, or the sales tax in some adjusted form, and it has hinted at the chance that it will urge upon the legislature a combination of the two.

It is in immediate competition for industry, commerce, and population. There are others who are equally convinced, although perhaps for more immediately political reasons, that they never will put their names to such a recommendation. The most they will entertain, the early discussions have made wholly clear, is a less progressive income tax to extract more from the pockets of the average earner. It is possible, although not altogether likely, that the viewpoints can be merged into a compromise income tax-sales tax report.

Yet it is precisely such an equivocal position that will be futile in legislative action terms when it is put on the record. As Gov. Nelson has accurately — although politically — said so many times, it will be difficult enough to adopt any broad tax program in the legislature during a campaign year. To push one that involves clouded issues, that invites a coalition of opposition and criticism, will be virtually hopeless.

THE GAIN
What then of the benefits of this fulsomely heralded investigation that has gone on more than a year? Even if the document is ignored and swept aside as far as related action this year is concerned, there will be tangible gains involved.

For the first time in a generation this commission, perhaps to its own surprise, has achieved a grass roots consciousness of the nature and extent of the Wisconsin public finance problem. A test is the consistently prominent news "play" Wisconsin editors have given the deliberations, however vague and academic. There is a recognition everywhere that here is the heart of Wisconsin politics of this period. New ideas of taxation are now being discussed openly and without embarrassment or recrimination. The issue is perhaps not yet ideally understood, by legislators or by their constituents, but it has come into clearer focus than the optimistic dared hope two years ago.

And there is the chance also that this reporter is dead wrong, that the commission will come to an agreement, that the legislature and the governor will be won over, and that a 19th century financial system will be fitted to 20th century conditions.

WHAT NOW

It is the latter position — inferential as it is — that is the most significant, and that will be the most disappointing.

First, because it is so brittle. Second, because the commission report, when it comes, is likely to be a divided one, with a less than convincing majority vote, and a significantly large articulate minority vote.

There are men on the committee who are firmly convinced that Wisconsin must turn to the sales tax, as have so many other states including those with which "has a nice setup." He has no alternative but to look to the city for additional income in order to save his farm investment. I doubt that most people enjoy holding two jobs in an attempt to meet current living expenses. I would venture to say that most of these farmers have two reasons for holding a non-farm job: first, to hold onto what he has, and second, to try and keep as much money coming in during the present year in order to offset last year's losses.

Hamilton House Needs Cash for Move, Restoration

New York — (P) — A 2-story frame house which was once the home of American statesman and Sec. of the Treasury Alexander Hamilton is slowly mouldering away on New York City's upper west side.

The house, built by Hamilton in 1801 and called the Grange, is in dilapidated contrast to the appearance of luxury it had when occupied by one of the men closest to Gen. George Washington during the revolution. It is a museum now but the organization maintaining it cannot find the $400,000 necessary to move it to a more suitable site and restore it. Meantime paint peels, plaster falls and vandals get in their work.

All-Staters, Twilight Clubs Dine, Dance at Mid-Winter Festivities

The Columbus club and the Moose lodge were the settings Saturday evening for two Appleton club events. The All-Staters Couples' club held an international dinner, featuring German, Italian and Swedish foods at the Moose lodge. In the top picture, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Enwall and Dr. and Mrs. William Riemen serve themselves at the German food buffet table. On the right, Mr. and Mrs. James Ormson and Dr. and Mrs. Adrian Popelka engage in table talk while eating. Meanwhile, at the Columbus club, Twilight Dance club members danced to the music of a juke box at an informal pre-lenten fling. Below are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sheehy and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Vreede.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Long, decoration committee chairmen, and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Grow secure name tags before entering the Twilight Dance club's "Sweater Swirl" Saturday evening at the Columbus club. The informal dance was the second social event of the season for the club members.

In Good Taste

This Query On Long Betrothal

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am 20 years old and have been going with a boy my age for over a year. We are both sophomores in college. We have decided to wait until we finish college to marry — which will be in about two years. However, we would like very much to become formally engaged now. We have been told that an engagement of such length is not proper and that we should wait until shortly before we marry to announce our engagement. Will you please tell me if it would be in bad taste for my parents to announce our engagement at this time?

Answer: While there is no rule against your announcing your engagement now if you wish, it is rather a long time before the wedding, and in my opinion, it will be better to wait for at most a year before asking your parents to announce your engagement.

Which Name First?

Dear Mrs. Post: The daughter of a friend of mine was married recently and I was invited to the wedding reception. The napkins at each place had John and Mary printed on them with the wedding date directly underneath. Several of us argued as to whether it should have been John and Mary or Mary and John. Some thought the bride's name should have come first, but others disagreed saying that Mr. always comes before Mrs. We are curious to know which is correct.

Answer: As the bride's family were the hosts, it was polite of them to put the groom's name first.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-6, entitled, "What to Wear at Wedding Reception," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Girl Scouts Fete Fathers at Dinner

Fifth and sixth grade Girl Scouts from St. Pius X, Jackson, Franklin and Huntley schools held a father-daughter potluck dinner Thursday evening at St. Pius X Catholic school.

Mrs. George Ward, chairman, Mrs. Hal Abramson, Mrs. Joseph Gregorius, Mrs. Edward Thode and Mrs. Harvey Meiers were in charge of arrangements.

Troop 268 of Franklin school, under the leadership of Mrs. Abramson, Mrs. Robert Defferding and Mrs. Hilton Christianson led the group in grace. A flag ceremony was presented by Troop 230 from Huntley school. Flag bearers and color guards included Denise Lipske, Nancy Mader, Karen Hovde and Sue Niedzwiecki.

Troop 234 of Franklin school presented a puppet show and song honoring their fathers and Troop 276 sang spirituals.

A Juliet Lowe Friendship program was given by Troop 263 of Huntley school under the supervision of Mrs. Kenneth Murray, Mrs. H. E. Bravick and Mrs. Forrest Whitman.

Jackson school's Troop 269 presented a song and skit and St. Pius Troop 273 entertained the group with an action song. Troop 220 of St. Pius school featured a scout camp song. The kitchen committee included Mrs. Ewald Tilly, Mrs. Archie Probst, Mrs. Meiers, Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Mrs. Donald Jabas, Mrs. Kenneth Reimer, Mrs. Charles Blodgett, Mrs. James Printup and Mrs. Kirk Miles.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Dexter Wolfe, North Neighborhood chairman, Mrs. S. B. Owings, district chairman, Mrs. Gordon Matson, Franklin organizer, Mrs. Leo Gettsfried, Huntley organizer, Mrs. Joseph Heaton, field director, Miss Esther Pickles, executive director, Mrs. Jack Joosten, St. Pius organizer, and Mrs. M. A. Buchanan, Jackson organizer.

Women Foresters Elect Officers

Miss Rosemary Trettin was reelected her eighth term as chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters Wednesday evening at St. Mary school.

Other officers are Mmes. Margaret Brown, vice-chief ranger; Joseph Wydevan, recording secretary; Edwin Massonette, financial secretary; Louis Pelczynski, treasurer; R. M. Brandt, Raymond Heegeman, Edward Horrig, trustees; and Harry Tews, juvenile directress. Drs. F. J. Rankin and Stephen Konz were retained as medical examiners, and the Rev. Adam Grill as chaplain.

Miss Trettin appointed Mrs. Raymond Kneice and Mrs. Frances Morrow conductors and Mrs. George Koehler and Mrs. John Heenan, sentinels.

Miss Loretta Griesbach is auditor.

Installation of officers for the nine courts will be held on Thursday evening, April 21, at Holy Name school, Kimberly. Mrs. B. J. Ouellette is general chairman. Installing officers will be Miss Josephine Weigl, Chicago, Ill., high chief ranger, and Miss Regina Piasecki, Green Bay, high trustee.

Members will receive communion in a body at the 7:30 mass Sunday. Girl rangers also will attend.

Final plans were made for participating in the Good Neighbor fair at the Valley Fair Shopping center on April 30. The mother and daughter dinner will be held on May 4.

Senior Scouts To Hear Reports

Two representatives from the 15 senior troops in the Fox River area Girl Scout council will convene at 10 a.m. Saturday at the YMCA for a senior planning board meeting.

The group will hear a report on the mid-winter cruise held Saturday in Fond du Lac for senior scouts. Plans will also be made for the senior scouts international rally and the annual meeting and program for eighth grade Girl Scouts.

Miss Adeline Pfingsten and Mrs. Leonard Heckner, Neenah, are the group's advisers.

Couples Wed in Double Ceremony at St. Therese

At 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Therese Catholic church, Miss Janice Ann Wolfgram was married to Kenneth D. Wildt, Milwaukee, and in the double wedding ceremony her brother, Robert Wolfgram, wed Miss Laura Patricia Myers. The Rev. Robert Vandenberg officiated.

Parents of the four newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolfgram, 825 E. Commercial street, Mr. and Mrs. John Arlon Myers, 146 State street, Neenah, and Frank Wildt, Milwaukee.

Mrs. Douglas Smith, Menasha, was matron of honor for the two brides, and their bridesmaid was Miss Joyce Kieffer. The bridegrooms had Eric Weber as best man, James Baer, groomsmen, and ushers were Ronald Jansen and John Myers.

The couples were honored at a noon wedding dinner at Hietpas restaurant in Little Chute, and a reception at 7 p.m. at the VFW hall, Appleton.

Miss Wolfgram is a June graduate of Appleton High school and works at the Fox River Valley Knitting Mill. Her husband is employed by Fox River Paper company. They will live at 1715 1/2 W. Spencer street.

Miss Myers graduated from Neenah High school, and now is working for Zwicker Knitting Mills. Wolfgram attended Appleton High school and Kieffer. The bridegrooms had works for Omar Bakery, Inc. They will live at 830 E. Commercial street.

Your Problems

Teenager Engaged in Difficult Fight With Questionable Past

DEAR ANN: Please don't bawl me out. I know what I did wrong. Just tell me what to do about it now.

I went with a fellow I was wild about. I was only 15 and he was 19. He was my first date. He told me he loved me and wanted to marry me. Ann Landers comeday. Before I knew it he talked me into proving my love for him. Three months later he dropped me like a hot coal. I was heartbroken. In fact I was sick in bed for three days. I told my mother it was the flu, but I knew better.

Now a wonderful fellow has shown some interest in me and I'd give my right eye to go out with him. He told me he has considered dating me for several weeks, but he's heard such rough stories he'd have a hard time thinking of me as "his girl."

How can a girl keep a rat from ruining her reputation for all time?—Dumb Bunny.

Dear Bunny: Don't put all the blame on the rat. He didn't knock you out of a tree and drag you off.

Of course he's a crumb but there's nothing you can do to close his mouth. Your only hope is to demonstrate to the new friend that you're no pushover. Then he may give less credence to the gossip. Fighting a bad past is difficult, but eventually some nice guy will come along and accept you for what you are.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why are you such a stick-in-the-mud? You must get thousands of letters from people who are lonesome. You could do a lot of people a big favor by putting them in touch with each other.

A great many respectable people are unable to travel and make nice contacts. And then there are the ones who have lovely character and pleasant personalities, but they're just shy.

I think you are shirking your responsibility when you turn your back on lonesome people. You could help them so easily—if you only would.—Agin Ann Landers

Dear Agin: I beat my brains out to help people through the newspapers and via personal letters, and that's the end of the line, Buster.

Under no circumstances would I play match maker for people who write. Many a psychotic can compose a perfectly charming letter.

The lonesome people in this world are many—and I feel sorry for them, but they'll have to find each other with no help from me.

DEAR ANN: We have a cleaning lady who has worked for us for several years. She is an alcoholic. I am not interested in curing her. I believe this is her own business. But how can I stop her from drinking half a quart of my husband's good bourbon and then filling the bottle up with water?

I never leave her alone in the house and I can't figure out how she gets the liquor down so fast—but it never fails. I can't follow her around every minute.—Stumped

P. S. She is a marvelous cleaner and I refuse to give her up.

Dear Stumped: If there is no lock on the liquor cabinet it would be worth the investment.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1960)

Art Exhibits Open At College Center

A one - woman painting show by Olga Bober, wife of M. M. Bober of the Lawrence college faculty, and samples of the work of the nation's oldest organization of creative craftsmen are on display at the Worcester Art center during March.

Mrs. Bober has been actively interested in painting since 1941, and has been able to study in various parts of the country while her husband filled guest professorships or other posts. During World War II, while Bober was with the OPA in Washington, Mrs. Bober studied in the Corcoran Art School. She has worked under Ann Brockman in Rockport, Mass., and in Gloucester and Provincetown, Mass., with Umberto Romano. She also was enrolled at the Albright Art school in Buffalo, N.H. Other summer instruction has also been received at the University of Wisconsin and a Michigan art colony.

Nineteen members of the Wisconsin Designer craftsman group are represented with original fabrics, silver and enameled copper jewelry and stoneware.

Participating in the traveling exhibit are Elizabeth Zimmerman and Marjorie Griebeling, both of Milwaukee; and Charlotte Flynn, Thiensville; all of whom have contributed block or screen prints or knitwear. Nancy Sherwood, Jean Podell, Evelyn McKinley, Helen Newhard, Margaret Stelter, Alma Delanty, Jane Beckman, and Jane Zunick, all of Milwaukee, and Marie Bottaglia, Warren, Mich., are showing hand-crafted jewelry; while Ernest Mahlke, also Milwaukee, has created several silver sculptures.

Stoneware bowls and vases have been contributed by Richard Schneider, Racine; Robert Potter, Brookfield; Beverly Gray, Thiensville; and Milwaukeeans Frank Kulastwicz, James Hansen and Abraham Cohn.

The art center is open to the public during school hours and evenings until 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays until 5 p.m., and Sundays 2 to 5 p.m.

NCCW Plans Convention

The Green Bay Diocesan Council of Catholic Women executive board has voted to have an exhibit at the 30th national convention of the National Council of Catholic Women from Oct. 31 to Nov. 4 in Las Vegas, Nev. Miss Marie Haag, Appleton, Outagamie deanery president, attended the Saturday meeting at the Hotel Northland, Green Bay.

Packaged tours to Las Vegas are being arranged for individuals and groups.

An institute conducted by the NCCW will substitute for a diocesan convention this year, date and place to be announced later.

Registration deadline for Catholic Girls' camp, Loon Lake, is April 15. The camp session will run from June 26 to Aug. 20, and girls between ages of seven and 18 are eligible. For further information contact Mrs. Robert Hanel, Outagamie Deanery Catholic Girls' camp chairman.

Church Rector Will Address Women's Group

A silent auction and luncheon will be held by the Women of All Saints' Episcopal church at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the parish hall. The Rev. Albert Hillstad, rector of St. Mark church, Oconto, will be guest speaker.

Students Plan Open House

Don Cayen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Cayen, 413 W. Parkway boulevard, has been named chairman of the metallurgy lab for the 12th annual engineering open house on March 26 at Marquette university. Thomas W. Grossman, a sophomore in mechanical engineering, is on the planning committee. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Grossman, 123 E. Byrd street.

Robert J. VandenBurg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John VandenBurg, 403 W. Lincoln avenue, Little Chute, was one of 20 men initiated into Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honorary fraternity at Marquette university.

Two Appleton students at Beloit college will participate in the school's "Living Portraits" dance show Friday and Saturday evening. The 22-member cast includes James Zwerg, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Zwerg, 630 S. River-view lane, and Barbara Dhein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dhein, 1750 N. Erb street.

March 25 Deadline For Homemaker Scholarship Blanks

Chilton — March 25 is the deadline for applications for the 1960 Calumet County Homemaker scholarship, according to Mrs. John Suttner, home agent.

The $200 scholarship is awarded annually to a county girl who is continuing her education in the fields of home economics, teaching or nursing.

Application blanks are available at the county extension office, from school principals or home economics instructors. They must be accompanied by three recommendations, and an essay on "My Career Choice."

Judging will be based on scholarship, leadership, personality and financial ability. The award will be made at the annual Homemaker Achievement day, May 4.

Tips for Hand Care

Cast your eye on the hand-care suggestions below. It's a sure thing you will find more than one tip for lovelier your hands.

When possible, brush-scrub your hands while washing them. Scrubs help to keep the hand complexion extra white and clear.

Apply hand lotion as though smoothing on a tight glove—smooth sides of each finger and then stroke backs of hands from fingertips to wrists. By the method, the satinating action of lotion is doubled.

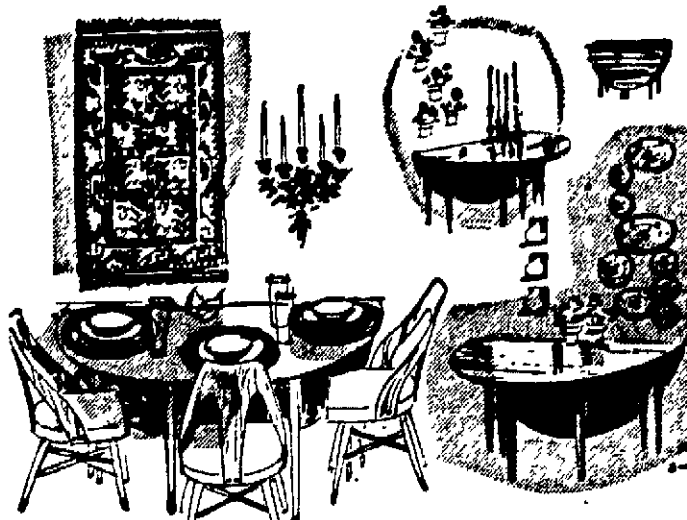

Keep a pumice stone in your manicure kit, and use it as needed to whittle away rough spots.

For removing stains, stock cotton swabs and hydrogen peroxide. To apply, simply dip swab in peroxide, run it over bar soap and rub on discolorations.

Wall Decoration Ideas by Famous Designer

When space - saving demands that a dining table hug a wall, what goes on the wall above it? There's no better idea man to answer this question than Lawrence Peabody, who's vastly admired for the originality with which he creates style for a room with accessories — just as he is for his refreshing designs for furniture.

Here are three wall designs for which Mr. Peabody made the first sketches. He suggests using both rare items and those which are easy to come by, or may be on hand. The table is the newest in the famed Peabody Collection which stores will soon show, a beauty of a contemporary adaptation of a harvest table. It is only nineteen inches deep with the leaves down, and dinner party size with them up, 69 inches by 59 inches.

Wall decoration is particularly important when diners are close to it, as they are when one leaf is up, but these compositions of interesting objects also plan on the long view—note how high they reach to be effective from the farthest corner of a living - dining room. The arrangement at left, which also shows handsome new Peabody chairs, hangs a rug on the wall. In Mr. Peabody's own words, an antique Oriental rug in a geometric pattern is best for this, one of the many available which are badly worn and inexpensive but which are still works of art and make fabulous wall decor. With it he suggests only an old French wall sconce, or either an antique or a contemporary wall candelabrum.

Plants in natural clay pots are suggested for the high and narrow arrangement at upper right. Attachment to the wall is practical with wire holders on picture hooks, and with plastic containers within the pots to protect the wall from dampness. Mr. Peabody particularly likes the living arrangement at right, which also shows handsome new Peabody chairs, hangs a rug on the wall. Ace Discard Unblocks Club Run

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Declarer's hand is usually stronger than the dummy. When the reverse is true, the problem of finding an entry to the dummy becomes changed to the problem of reaching your own hand.

If you're a fast counter, you can count nine easy tricks in this hand: five clubs, two diamonds, one heart and one spade. The tricks are there, but it isn't so easy to cash them.

After you take the ace of spades, you lead a club to dummy's ace. Then how do you get back to your own hand to run the rest of the clubs?

If you're thinking of the jack of diamonds, better think

Don't Leave Hand

The way to get back to the South hand is never to leave it. Hold up the ace of spades until the third round. As you take the ace of spades, discard the ace of clubs from dummy!

This unblocks the clubs. You take your five clubs and then cash the top cards in the rest suits.

"Aha" you pounce on me. "What happens if the defenders don't lead a third spade? East stops after taking two spades and then shifts to the king of hearts!"

Today's Executives Need Smart Wives, Author Says

BY DOROTHY ROE

What kind of a girl should an ambitious young business man marry?

"A smart one," says Cameron Hawley, novelist and world traveler, whose books usually are set in a background of big business. "Beauty is secondary. Today's young executives consider the intellectual wife a status symbol."

The era of the beautiful but dumb wife, who used to be the ideal of the nation's tycoons, is a thing of the past, says Hawley, author of "Executive Suite," "Cash McCall" and the just-published "The Lincoln Lords."

"There is a changing concept of the executive wife," he explains. "In research for my latest book I talked to corporation executives, businessmen and college boys all over the country, as well as to the wives of many of them. I got a new picture of the kind of woman today's young men are seeking."

"I remember spending several days at a midwestern university, where I got acquainted with a number of the students. These boys were dead serious about analyzing the kind of girl who would help them get ahead in business."

Bachelor's Domicile May Cause Wrath of Guests

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Do your guests undergo an endurance test when they visit you?

The bachelor boy (or girl) running his own domicile is likely to be guilty of taking advantage of guests by his lassitude toward housekeeping.

Perish the thought that you will so take for granted your solitary occupancy that guests feel they are camping out when they visit you. But that's usually the case. An invitation to dinner shouldn't be "pot luck" all around with host or hostess acting like the stove was just invented.

A guest won't rebel at eating mushy spaghetti, burned steak, wild rice blasphemed with raisins. Blame it on inexperience, he'll say.

Appetite Quasher

The usual setup at one of these soirees when dinner is being served includes several appetite quashers. The first, inevitable in bachelor quarters, is a view of the host blowing dust out of the well-fingermarked glasses he plans to use for beverages.

Another is the one that makes his dinner plates look shiny—he rubs them on his trousers before he sets the table. And a guest who has never looked into the coffee pot in one of those bachelor quarters shouldn't—he'll never drink coffee again.

You may find out before the evening is over that the ham-pie that you've eaten has been in the refrigerator a couple of weeks. Just the thing to make your dinner sit well.

His novel, pad, room or whatever he calls it is likely to look like a model for a fallout shelter — jammed with junk and a 10-year supply of baked beans.

Minus Comfort

Comfort? You'll need practice in a sardine can before you can find it in a chair. There is one comfortable chair — his. But you can't sit in it because it is propped up with old magazines, books or beer cans. He has a couple of straight chairs on top, if you've been rehearsing in your straight jacket lately. There may be a studio couch to sit on. If you are seven feet tall your legs may hit the floor and your back the wall.

Otherwise you sit like a rag doll on a shelf.

Every bachelor boy or girl apartment has pillows thrown willy-nilly on the floor for "the overflow of guests." (Any number over one.) The Japanese love to sit on pillows, but there is something about the American physique that doesn't invite floor sitting, and the dust you breathe in from the dirty rug —ugh. What ever happened to the carpet sweeper?

Why is it too, that there is a complete absence of color in the apartment of single occupancy? There is an excuse for the bachelor girl who might be operating on limited funds. But bachelors usually are better heeled.

Inexpensive decoration can be done with a bucket of paint, paint roller, and simple fabrics for throw pillows, draperies, slipcovers—cotton, sailcloth, corduroy or felt that can be put together inexpensively by a local seamstress.

A good color scheme for a man could be beige, lemon, brown. Another color combination in the sunny colors could be mustard, pale yellow, curry. If he wants to be really dramatic he could combine charcoal, red, black. If he likes blue, a dreamy restful combination is pale blue, kelly green and violet.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-6 2, H-A 10 9 6 4, D-A K 9 8 3, C-A. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. You plan to bid diamonds next. If partner shows enthusiasm over one of your suits you will try for a slam. If he merely makes minimum rebids in spades, however, you will avoid getting past game. (Copyright, 1960)

Difference Can be Asset to Youngster

BY ANGELO PATRI
When a child differs in a marked way from his fellows—whether he is taller, bigger, brighter, duller, deformed or just plain different—his life is likely to be shadowed by the feeling this difference makes to him in relation to his fellows.

It sets him apart in his own mind, and in the minds of his would-be playmates. His attitudes toward life are affected by all this and he is likely to become unhappy, and so cause his parents and teachers concern.

The big child is one of those likely-to-be-unhappy children. The child suited to the usual child are too small for him, clothes are quite unsuitable; toys look silly in his hands.

He cannot play with his age group because the youngsters are all smaller than he and can use their playthings handily while he can only show his awkwardness.

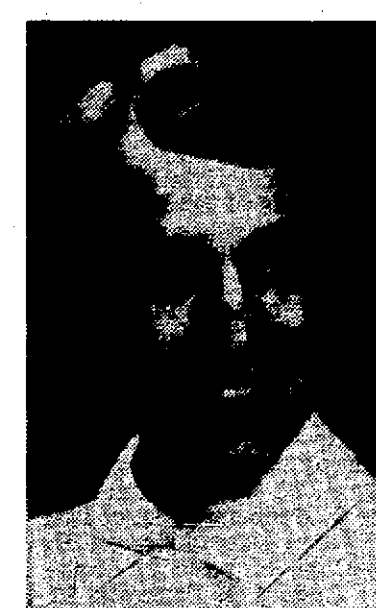

This child should be told the truth about himself: that bigness can be, often is, a great asset to him. He has it in his power to be superior in achievement in whatever field he belongs. If he is good, he has more room for goodness, more power to use it; he is in a better position to show it since he is head and shoulders above his fellows.

Teach him to stand up tall, girl, that while they are different, the difference can be a great gift, one that offers him power, a chance to lead where others may follow.

Teach him to stand up tall, to take pride in his height, his breadth and his strength. Show him how the world has benefitted by the presence of its big people.

Washington was a big man and proved it. Take a look at Michael Angelo's Moses, at the Venus di Milo, marking how different they are, and impress that idea on the big children. Bigness can be an asset.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-22, "Relationships to Other Children," send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Words for Lent

A Man Catches Himself

BY CHARLES M. CROWE

"I made me great works; I builded me houses; . . . and, behold, all was vanity." — Ecclesiastes 2:4,11

Charles Darwin, the great naturalist, made an extended field trip to Argentina and Uruguay. During his stay he went on long horseback rides with the famous Gauchos. Darwin even tried to throw the bola, a long rawhide thong with balls of iron on the end. These were used to capture wild horses. In one of his efforts, Darwin's bola wound around himself and his horse. In his autobiography the scientist reports that the Gauchos roared with laughter at this. They had never seen a man caught by himself.

This might have been unusual for the Gauchos in Argentina, but it is an every day occurrence in every American community. For more people than we know are tripped up by themselves. They try to keep up with the fast pace of the crowd. They get all wound up in their own ambitions, gadgets, worries, fears, and desires. This leads them to bypass their faith in God to say nothing of their common sense. They over-extend their credit, their good judgment, and their health. The result too often is failure, sickness, bitterness of spirit, and a denial of God. Christians need to beware lest in their frenzied efforts to build houses and make great works, the result is not vanity and self-defeat.

PRAYER: Dear Lord, keep us from becoming so tangled up in the things of the world and the vanities of life that we shall forget thee and fall. In Christ's name, Amen.

Prison Term for Woman Embezzler
Houston, Texas.—(AP)—"This has been on my conscience and I wanted to say something about it," a grandmother said in court Thursday after admitting embezzling $88,082 from a supermarket which employed her.

But, she added, "I was afraid of what might happen."

Mrs. Josephine Terry, 44, then agreed before Dist. Judge Arnold Krichamer to accept a 3-year prison sentence. She told him she obtained the money over a 2-year period while head cashier at the store.

The woman was indicted on five counts involving embezzlement of amounts ranging from $200 to $24,800.

Badger District Would Pay Back Tax if Attached

If the Badger school district is attached to the Appleton school district this year, an residents of the district have petitioned, people of the district still will have to pay a year's tax to the town of Grand Chute for high school and vocational school tuition and transportation.

Robert Brown, president of the Badger school board, estimates that the 1960 school and town tax rate for the district will be $22 per $1,000 if the district remains independent. But if the district is attached to Appleton, he said, residents will pay an estimated $22.50 Appleton district tax, plus about $6 for tuition and transportation for the preceding year, and $6 town tax, or a total of $34.50.

In 1961, Badger taxpayers would pay the same school tax rate as city residents. Brown estimated that the total tax rate would be about $30, compared with about $28 in the Badger district if it is not attached.

State law requires that the district be part of a high school district by July, 1962.

Two of VNA's most active organizers were Mrs. James Bergstrom, Neenah, and the late Mrs. Westbrook Steele, then of the Infant Welfare circle board.

In 1954, the VNA articles of incorporation were changed to permit acceptance of the Peabody estate money to establish and manage a home for the aged. In 1955 the administrators of the Peabody estate were in need of an organization of sound reputation, non-church affiliated, to assume the responsibility of carrying out George Peabody's wish for a home for elderly persons. The VNA applied and was accepted by the court.

The court decided, too, that the $35,000 bequest for nursing service also should go to the VNA and that the VNA could use both bequests to build the home of the VNA nursing service headquarters were in the same building or adjoining. The solution was a perfect one, since the present VNA home is inadequate to carry on its constantly expanding program in community health.

'Who' of Campaign
So this is the "who" of the campaign: the VNA, its board of 21 women directors, its medical advisory committee of six doctors, its lay advisory committee of eight citizens, a professional fund-raising organization, Beaver Associates of Chicago and a carefully organized volunteer campaign staff.

How much? How many dollars to build a dream? Peabody Manor is estimated to cost $750,000. This amount includes cost of the van headquarters with furnishings. Since 25 per cent of the bequest must be set aside for endowment under terms of the will and the VNA board decided to keep a reserve for first year maintenance costs, about one-third of the total construction cost is available for the building fund from the Peabody estate.

Building estimates, engineering and architects' fees, furnishings, lands campaign expenses and contingencies total $804,028.

Peabody Manor

Idea for Home Older Than VNA

BY MARY ELLEN DUCKLOW

When the first shovelful of dirt is turned over for Peabody Manor in June, on the site of old Jefferson school at S. Locust and W. Fifth streets dreams of more than a half century will begin taking shape. The building blocks of dreams are far from nebulous. The building blocks are work and dollars.

How many dollars? Where are they coming from? Who's asking for those dollars, and all the work? How did all this get started, anyhow?

It started with George F. Peabody, merchant and dreamer, hard-headed businessman with a benevolent spirit, who saw life in terms of people. When Mr. Peabody died, among many other philanthropic bequests he left one of $35,000 for building and operating a "home for elderly, indigent, worthy women."

Fifth and last of series

"The house, he said in his will, 'is to be built on property given by the city of Appleton, to be located on a street car line . . . have space for gardens.'"

There was, in addition, $35,000 for establishing a home nursing service.

Through years of the most prudent and expert management by its trustees, this bequest came to be worth $448,620. It's invested and earning money for the project. The will stated that 25 per cent of the money be saved for endowment.

Now, who's asking for the money? How did the Visiting Nurse association get into the act?

VNA Organized

The VNA's Appleton history goes back to 1946, when the Infant Welfare circle of the King's Daughters of Appleton made an initial contribution and the VNA was incorporated to give nursing care in the patient's home, to educate patient and family in nursing care, to educate for parenthood and to provide part-time nursing service for industry.

Two of VNA's most active organizers were Mrs. James Bergstrom, Neenah, and the late Mrs. Westbrook Steele, then of the Infant Welfare circle board.

Cork People Fun to Fashion, Faces May be Drawn With Ink

BY CAPPY DICK

Corks held together with pins can be turned into very funny little people. Figures 3 and 4 show some examples. You can buy corks of various sizes in many hardware and dime stores. You will need some very small ones and some large ones. In addition, you must have some pins, pipe cleaners, pen and ink and a paring knife with which to carve some of the corks.

Figure 1 shows how to assemble the head of a cork girl wearing a hat with a feather on it. Use a fairly small cork for the head. With ink draw eyes, a nose and a mouth on it. Slice a thin piece off the wide end of a large cork for the hat brim. Select a small cork for the hat crown. Attach the crown and brim to the head with a long pin. The feather may be real, if you can find one small enough, or may be a paper feather glued to the crown.

Select a large cork for the body and punch a hole into it with a knitting needle. Run a short pipe cleaner into this hole. Make a hole in the bottom of the cork head and attach it to the cleaner. This will provide the doll with a neck that can be bent in various directions.

A still larger cork will become the girl's skirt. Attach it to the body with two pins pressed diagonally through both corks. With the knitting needle, make two holes into the bottom of the skirt and press short pieces of pipe cleaner into them for the girl's legs and feet. Pipe cleaner arms are attached the same way. The girl's purse is made of paper.

County Airport Federal Aid Drastically Cut

$38,950 of $101,000 Request Allocated, Federal Agency Says

Washington — Aid for the Outagamie county airport has been cut by two-thirds, the federal aviation agency told Rep. John W. Byrnes Thursday.

The agency said it had allocated the Outagamie airport $38,950 for construction of the surface course on the existing east-west runway, taxiway and apron.

The agency did not grant requests for an additional $62,050 for land acquisition, runway extension paving, light installation, obstruction removal and lighting.

The federal money covers half the construction cost, with the state and local governments paying the rest. The request was for $85,000 from the state and $16,000 from the county to match federal aid.

Shawano Port

The Shawano municipal airport was allocated its full request of $22,500 federal aid. This will be used to help construct a new southeast runway and taxiway and to clear the zone for the northwest-southeast runway.

Funds were authorized under the federal aid airport program for the fiscal year 1961, and include a total of $993,906 for the entire state. The state's requests were $2,207,750. Funds will be available after July 1, 1960.

Deadline Set For Sugar Beet Acre Allocations

Outagamie county farmers have until March 18 to request the acreage they desire to plant in sugar beets this spring.

There is no assurance of acreages for late requests because total acreage allocated to Wisconsin is limited. Bert Weyenberg, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization conservation committee, said. The state acreage is about 9,000 acres.

Growers may contact fieldmen of the Menominee Sugar company for allotments. They are Wilbert Haberland, route 1, Appleton, or Wesley Halle, route 2, Shiocton.

Prospective growers also may call at the county ASC office at 341 W. College avenue. Producers should check their production and marketing facilities with the sugar company first, Weyenberg said.

Water Safety Course

Announcing the plans today, Mayor Wagner termed Miss Heiss "typical of the thousands of New York boys and girls who devote their youthful energies in simultaneously building sound minds in sound bodies."

City Continues Alteration of Its Pay Plan

Aldermen Cut Wages Of Nurses, Decline To Have State Review

The city's pay plan adopted in December went through some more alteration at Wednesday night's council meeting.

But a review of the plan, proposed by the finance committee, was sent back to the finance group after its chairman indicated the members wanted to think it over some more.

At the Feb. 17 council meeting, aldermen refused to follow the welfare committee's recommendation for a salary cut for practical nurses at the city home. Wednesday night, the finance committee chairman, Ald. Bogan, said he'd voted wrong and wanted the matter up for reconsideration.

$325 to $250

The council voted to uphold the committee and cut the nurses' salaries from $325 monthly to $250 monthly.

The cut is based on a reduction in hours from 70 to 40 weekly, although when the hours were cut (because an additional practical nurse was hired), the pay was not reduced, Welfare Director Melville J. Flagstad said.

The $325 rate is equal to or more than registered nurses are paid in the city, he added.

What About 4-Hour?

What, asked Ald. Schneider, about the 4-hour cut in street workers weekly time—will that be accompanied by a wage cut?

No, said Ald. Malmstrom, the street committee's recommendation is for the 4-hour cut, to a 40-hour week, without a drop in pay—equal to a 10 per cent hourly wage raise.

The state bureau of personnel, Malmstrom pointed out, had scheduled the nursing jobs at $300 monthly and specified no pay cuts until new personnel was hired to replace existing nurses.

Voting against the cut were Ald. Malmstrom, Schneider and Mrs. Stillings.

Vote Change

"I find it strange that I voted not to reduce the salaries at the last council meeting, now three vote against a reduction. What new information has come into whose hands?" asked Schneider.

"I voted wrong, that's all," answered Bogan.

Bogan asked that a request to the state for attending a meeting to review the city's pay plan be sent back to his (finance) committee. The move was decided upon after aldermen from the street and public safety committee met with the finance group to iron out the pay plan changes made so far by the council which, in the words of some aldermen, have "made a mess of the plan."

Increasing pressure from the Teamsters union, representing street, sanitation and park department workers and from other city workers for wage boosts has been developing the last several months, but the finance committee has maintained that the city has no money to pay increases, since boosts already have taken $39,000 with only $35,000 budgeted this year.

Two 1-Act Plays to be On PTA Program

The St. Paul Lutheran school Parent-Teachers association will present a spring show of two 1-act plays, with an interlude of variety acts. Members of the congregation may try out for the show on March 9 and 10.

Mrs. C. C. Intermuehle is show chairman. Committee members are Mrs. Clarence Ehke, Mrs. Robert Tuckis and Paul Tepper.

At a meeting Tuesday, the PTA saw a film, "The Angry Boy," shown under the auspices of the Fox Valley Mental Health association. Miss Elizabeth Wright, assistant professor of religion at Lawrence college, led discussion.

The PTA chose Roland Abutz, Ruben Schulz and Arlo Sivert to be on the nominating committee.

The next meeting will be on May 11, when officers will be elected.

Menahem Monsoor, chairman of the University of Wisconsin department of Hebrew and Semitic studies, said Wednesday that he could teach a course in Hebrew in this area if there is a demand for it. Mrs. Ben Shilcrat says people interested in such a class may contact her.

Paper Firm Proxy Fight Ends in Vote

A proxy fight at Consolidated Paper company ended with the insurgent Gidwitz interests winning two of 12 seats on Consolidated's board at the annual meeting in Detroit.

Mrs. C. C. Intermuehle is show chairman. Committee members are Mrs. Clarence Ehke, Mrs. Robert Tuckis and Paul Tepper.

The next meeting will be on May 11, when officers will be elected.

After balloting, the annual meeting was adjourned for two weeks, until March 9.

The Consolidated meeting began Tuesday noon at the company's headquarters in Monroe, Mich., but was moved to a local Masonic temple to handle the overflow crowd.

The Gidwitzes, who control Helene Curtis Industries, Inc., and a number of paper companies, put three candidates up on their proxy. They elected Willard Gidwitz, president of Helene Curtis, and Robert P. Getty, executive vice president of Crandon Paper Mills, Inc., to the board. After the election both sides pledged cooperation.

Results of voting on three company proposals were not announced. They would double the number of authorized shares to 1,500,000, allow directors to change the bylaws and set up a stock option plan.

The Gidwitz group opposed these, but both management and the insurgents agreed yesterday morning the management had the votes to put over the proposals. The adjournment will allow time to count proxies on these proposals.

Consolidated lost $953,000 in 1959, but reported a profit of $55,000 for last month, against a net loss of $51,000 in the five-year-earlier January.

Urge Conference on Narcotics Problem

Washington — A group of congressmen urged a White House conference to focus national attention on the narcotics problem.

Led by Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) and Rep. Joe Holt (R-Calif.), they testified Wednesday before a house judiciary subcommittee on behalf of a resolution that would put congress on record in favor of a White house conference.

Harry D. Anslinger, federal narcotics commissioner, questioned the need for a national conference, however. He said it would duplicate

Interior Humidity Constant Problem

Blister, Wood to Warp; Poses
Real Danger to Every Homeowner

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Winter, summer, spring or fall, the humidity problem is always with us — especially if we're home owners.

During any given period, this department receives more mail on the subject of humidity than on any other single topic. Most of the time the problem is too much humidity, but it is surprising how many letter writers discuss ways and means of getting more humidity into their homes.

The moisture, or water vapor, in the air is the humidity.

A study by Purdue University showed that a family of four generates about 6½ gallons of moisture every 24 hours merely by breathing, perspiring, showering, cooking and going through the route of living. When this moisture seeks an escape, it often finds itself trapped by the tight construction of modern homes.

The result is condensation, as the warm vapor hits cooler surfaces. Condensation causes paint to blister and wood to warp.

In areas where there is a low humidity at certain times of the year — and where there is no constant source of moisture from inside the house — the problem is different. Not enough humidity also causes structural damage, is a definite health hazard and can be even more uncomfortable than high humidity.

It would take at least a book to cover the subject of humidity adequately. And there have been some books on it. But much can be done toward correcting undesirable humidity conditions without making a complete study of the matter.

Can Be Avoided

For instance, condensation can be avoided if we remember the basic fact that assisting the air inside a house to circulate and move to the outside is the solution. Thus, if condensation forms on the cold water pipes in a basement, merely opening the basement windows may be the answer. Or it may be that a fan should be placed near an open window. Where there is too little moisture, a simple thing like allowing water to boil in a steam kettle will supply a considerable quantity of water vapor.

Then, of course, there are ready-made humidifying and dehumidifying machines, one to supply moisture, the other to extract it from the air. Most of these do a good job and, where conditions call for them, are well worth the money.

From the Outside This attractive home has a two story look. On the inside it offers multi-level living with a large recreation room, study, kitchen, dining and living rooms and bath on the grade level and three bedrooms and a bath on the upper level. The plan is HA127C by Lester Cohen, room 75, 117 W. 48th street, New York 36, N. Y.

Offer Tips on Use of Food Waste Disposer

Drain Stoppages Can be Prevented by Running Full Stream of Cold Water

One of the most valuable precision built, and engineered to withstand years of rugged use, household appliances is the food waste disposer. The disposer will shred most kinds of food waste into a fine pulp and flush it quickly down the drain. This includes scrapings, parings, bones, fruit rinds, vegetable tops, pea pods, and corn cobs. Used properly, the food waste disposer will provide the homemaker with years of trouble-free service.

Three suggestions on how to prevent drain stoppages in connection with the use of food waste disposers are offered by the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau.

The Bureau says that drain stoppages can usually be prevented by the use of a full stream of cold water. Cold water only should be used as it congeals and hardens greasy substances into tiny particles that keep grease from sticking to drain lines. Aerators on faucets should be cleaned regularly to insure that a proper volume of water is used when operating disposer to prevent stoppage. Always run disposer with water for 10 to 15 seconds after all food waste has been disposed of so all food waste clears disposer, trap, etc. with sufficient water.

Number of Registered Cars In Outagamie County Grows

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The number of registered motor vehicles in Outagamie county is increasing at a rate of nearly 100 a month, according to recent registration trends reported by the state motor vehicle department.

Record Set

The department has shown that Outagamie county at the end of 1959 had 38,763 registered motor vehicles of all kinds, a gain of 887 from the previous year.

The state as a whole last year registered 1,594,065 motor vehicles, an all-time high total. The figure included 1,281,498 autos and 243,706 trucks of all kinds.

The 1959 Outagamie county registrations included 31,806 autos, against 30,850 the previous year, 5,457 trucks, 741 trailers, 103 buses, 287 motorcycles, and 369 municipal vehicles registered under a special system.

The department reported these 1959 registration totals for other counties in the Appleton area:

Brown, 48,639; Winnebago, 41,403; Calumet, 9,277; Waupaca, 16,418; Shawano, 15,225; Manitowoc, 30,296; and Waushara, 7,340.

Picture Gardening As Last Frontier

Any Man Can Create World of His Own in Backyard, Expert Declares

BY NORMA GAUHN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York —(AP)— Once you've done a landscape for a houseboat, you should be able to tackle any problem.

Landscape architect Robert Malkin got the houseboat assignment and feels he did it in stride.

"I have a theory that gardening is now the ordinary man's last frontier," he says. "You may live an ordinary life, work at a cut-and-dried job, travel to work and recreation on dull roads. But you can still create a world all your own in your backyard."

For the houseboat landscape, done for a client in Florida, Malkin laid out an arrangement of plants for hanging vines, different levels of wood decking for potted plants, and overhead chains suspending plant holders.

Privacy Trends "Actually," he says, "A garden for a boat isn't as confining as one on a small city or suburban lot, hemmed in by neighbors and other buildings. The whole trend now is for privacy and enclosure with fencing screened by vines, shrubs and other plants."

Malkin's most recent job was as architect of the 1960 International Flower show in New York, which took a year and a half of advance planning.

However, the bulk of his work is for private clients—few of whom, he says, have large estates.

"I usually work with lots of 50 by 150 feet or 75 by 200 feet," he says. "That's still a lot of room for good design."

Malkin is careful to distinguish between landscaping (which is permanent) and gardening (which undergoes constant change.)

"Landscaping is like building a home," he says, "while gardening it is like gardening."

In 15 years experience in his field, Malkin is inclined to believe "this business of living outdoors can be run in to the ground."

Three Months "In most northern climates," he says, "you have maybe three months to spend outside. But it's usually too hot and buggy to enjoy. So the practical thing is to plan the garden as a thing of beauty."

"It can be looked at and enjoyed every day like a work of art—one that doesn't have to have constant, costly care."

Malkin says most people who come to him want, first, a beautiful garden; second, low cost; third, little maintenance.

As for cost, he is convinced—and not just because he is one—that a landscape architect is well worth his fee to anyone who plans to spend $1,500 or more on landscaping.

"That's not a great amount," he says, "counting lawn, trees, shrubs, perennials, annuals and patio."

Best Plants "Often a landscape architect makes up the amount of his fee with what he saves in getting competitive bids from nurserymen. He also gives insurance by picking the best plants for the location and climate."

In any event Malkin strongly advises against having the same person who sells plants draw the plan for where and how many are to be used. For the customer, he says, "it works out to how much the traffic will bear."

However, he urges do-it-yourself landscapers to consult nurserymen for expert advice on how plants will behave in specific locations.

Beforehand, Malkin advises above all, "stop and think."

garden is to be used for. Then work out a plan without thinking about specific plants."

"Vary space to give a different view in each area. This can be done no matter how small the lot."

Malkin's own preference in landscaping these days is for a more rugged woodland feeling through the use of rocks and naturalistic edgings.

"Natural woods are being wiped out," he says. "But you can still get a backyard resemblance to them with good landscape design."

This Beautiful Kitchen uses lumber to help hide its utilitarian purpose. The built-in units tend to disguise the major appliances and the refrigerator can actually be closed off. This sleight of hand will work anywhere but is especially useful where a kitchen is part of another room.

Your Money's Worth 'Fast' Termite Loss Deductible

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Last year the treasury finally agreed termite damage could be deductible.

While the treasury limited its concession to so-called fast termite damage, this was a substantial victory for taxpayers who formerly had to litigate to win even this much, and it stands as one of the most important pro-taxpayer developments of the year. Until a few months ago the treasury was adamant against any deduction for this damage.

The line between "fast" garden is to be used for. Then work out a plan without thinking about specific plants."

"Vary space to give a different view in each area. This can be done no matter how small the lot."

Malkin's own preference in landscaping these days is for a more rugged woodland feeling through the use of rocks and naturalistic edgings.

"Natural woods are being wiped out," he says. "But you can still get a backyard resemblance to them with good landscape design."

damage which the treasury will let you deduct and "slow" termite damage isn't easy to draw, but you can use the following rough rule of thumb: Damage which occurs over a period of less than two years is probably fast enough to be deducted. This means that if a couple years ago you examined your property and found no termite damage and then last year you did find it, you can claim the loss. Once over the 2-year period, you are in a questionable zone, and when you reach a 5-year period, you're clearly beyond the "fast" stage.

Why Not Moth Damage? In itself, the allowance of a deduction for termite damage is significant, for these insects do a tremendous amount of harm in many parts of our country. In addition, this concession casts considerable doubt on the treasury's refusal to allow a casualty loss deduction for moth damage.

The treasury's reasoning is that the damage doesn't take place suddenly enough to qualify as a casualty loss—but if "fast" termite damage within a 2-year period is a casualty, why isn't moth damage a casualty?

When preparing your income tax return, you should be aware that any moth damage claim will be thrown out by an examining agent. As of now, it seems unlikely that the treasury also will have reversed itself on a moth damage deduction by the time your return is checked.

In 1959 too, farmers in the Great plains area were permitted by a court to claim a deduction for the loss of topsoil caused by a windstorm. The court held that this type of storm was unusual in this farming area and the damage therefore qualified as a casualty loss.

Other Situations Taxpayers didn't do so well in other casualty loss situations, though, and you should know about these developments as well.

The Dutch elm disease which has destroyed countless numbers of trees in our nation, for instance, has long been ruled unacceptable as a casualty loss deduction by the treasury. Last year a district court held that the

Lumber Can be Used to Disguise the Major Appliances in Utility Kitchen

Lumber can make a kitchen appear to be something it is not. For, with some disguise, you can create or renovate a kitchen to make it look more like a family room than anything else. If you don't want to go this far, lumber will still go to give the room a warm and comfortable look with no sacrifice of modern convenience.

The basic aspect of this sleight of hand lies in lumber built-ins. These can include cupboards, cabinets and closets with special spots set aside for heavy or frequently used electrical appliances, roasting pans, coffee makers, etc.

Enclosed Sink Furthermore, the sink can be enclosed by a cupboard below and this can match others above and below your counter space. Your refrigerator can perhaps be set into the wall or, if not, enclosed in a closet-type built-in set into a corner of the room. A double or single door can be planned to open against a wall and not be in the way. The refrigerator then can be hidden from view. This also can apply to your washer and drier.

Your choice of lumber will be important to the overall decor. A clear grade will give a more formal look than one with knot formations, as will a dark rather than a light wood or wood stain. In other words, if you are using a clear finish a wood such as inland red cedar or incense cedar will look somewhat more formal than a very light species such as Idaho white pine. If you are using a wood stain your choice of species is not so important from the color standpoint, and any of the woods from the western pine region would be a fine choice since they all respond readily to stains.

Knotty Pine If you like a knotty pine effect you can choose a species with big splashy knots, such as ponderosa pine, or small discreet knots, common to lodgepole pine.

There are other finishing possibilities for a kitchen with a wood decor. You can paint, though this hides much of the natural charm of the wood, but if you like color and the qualities of the wood to show you might try a brush-on, wipe-off pigmented stain.

This type of finish can be worked up in any color, and when you are using a knotty grade of lumber it is possible to treat the wood so that the knots will stand out in a contrasting tone. Be sure in planning your kitchen to allow for good working light both on the walls and overhead. It also is wise to space electrical outlets about every four running feet at counter level for your appliances.

Packers Make Offer To Build 5,000 Additional Seats

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Green Bay Packer corporation Thursday indicated it would pay for a 5,000-seat addition to City stadium, estimated at between $100,000 and $150,000, and give the addition to the city.

The plan was disclosed at a session of the stadium commission. Fred Leicht, Packer corporation representative on the commission, asked what the commission's attitude would be toward the Packers "spending our own money and making these seats a gift to the city."

The commission agreed the city could have no objection to such a deal provided the construction plans were approved by the commission. The addition probably would be behind the north end zone and would raise this level of the stadium about 20 rows, which would be about half the height of sideline stands.

The Packers' offer appeared to be an end run gain — but not quite a first down — in negotiations with the city for a revised rental agreement for City stadium.

Leicht Votes Not The commission Thursday, with Leicht voting no, agreed that as "a starting point" the city should ask for rent of $50,000 for 1960. This would be the same as paid in 1959 but $20,000 more than the original rental agreement of 1956. The added $20,000 last year was used to build an additional toilet and office building at the stadium.

A major commission objective in seeking a new rental contract is to get money for a light plant for high school football. Until Thursday, the commission was pushing a package program for financing lights and the added seats.

Last Monday, city officials and the Packer executive committee examined a proposal for the city to supply its credit to get the money for the seating addition. The Packers would have paid a premium on annual 10-year installments with this money going for lights. The new money would have been incorporated into a new rental contract.

Lincoln Wins First Start

Two Unranked Team Upset Rated Foes

By the Associated Press

Defending state champion Milwaukee Lincoln scored an 88-67 victory over Milwaukee West Thursday night in sub-regional competition of the 1960 Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association basketball race.

Charley Houston scored 28 points in powering Lincoln to its thirty-fifth triumph in two seasons. It was the twenty-first victory of this season for Lincoln.

Lincoln Plays North Sub-regional competition continues tonight, and district action opens for 48 teams.

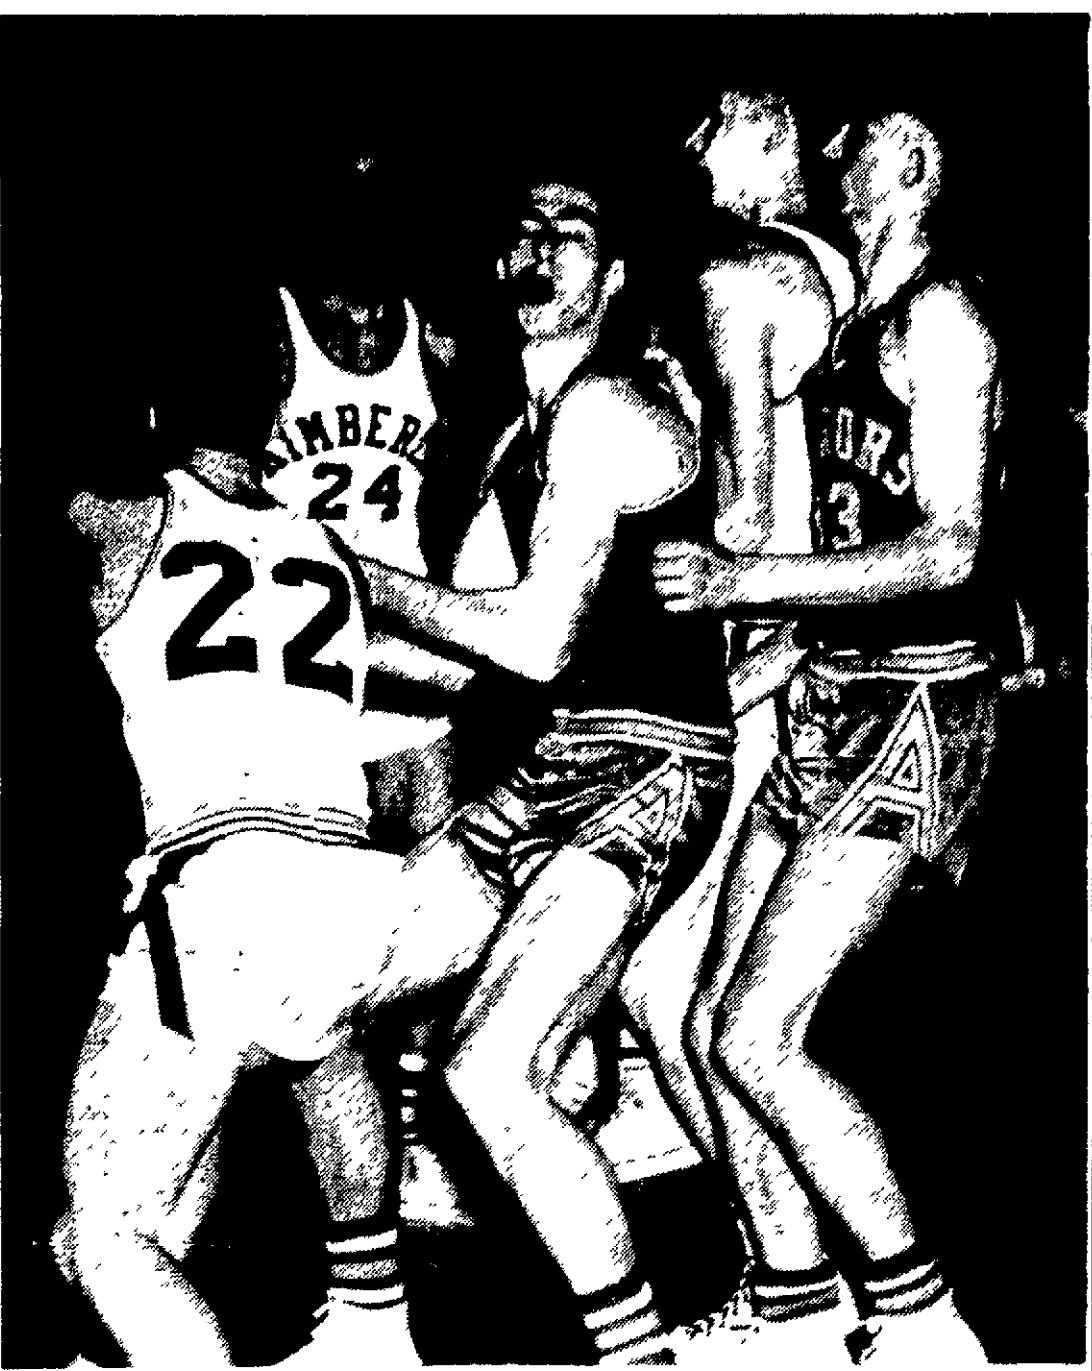

Lincoln, No. 1 in the final Big 16 WIAA ratings, battles unranked Milwaukee North tonight.

Waukesha, the No. 2 team, scored a 77-44 triumph over Muskego and faces unranked Greenfield tonight.

There were two upsets among ranked teams Thursday night. Menomonee, No. 14 in the ratings, dumped third place Eau Claire, 79-64, and fifteenth-place Appleton tallied an 84-71 win over Kimberly.

No. 6.

And two teams among the Big 16 fell prey to the unranked. Black River Falls knocked off La Crosse Central, 65-63, and Platteville won a 65-58 decision from Darlington. Central was ranked eighth and Darlington eleventh.

Appleton's Ron Abel (center of picture) wears a pained expression as he battles Kimberly's Don Hearden (22) for the ball during Thursday night's sub-regional basketball tournament at Hortonville. Also shown are Kimberly's Darrell Jansen (24) and Tom Rooyakkers and AHS' Marty Schultz (30). Abel scored 40 points as the Terrors won, 84-71.

Hortonville—Kaukauna (15-4) and Appleton (13-8), double-figure winners of semi-finals clashes Thursday night, square off at 8:30 tonight for Hortonville sub-regional basketball tournament honors.

Spearheaded by rampaging Ron Abel's 40-point barrage, the Terrors toppled defending regional champion Kimberly, 84-71, in last night's rousing opener. Abel's total probably stands as an all-time regional tourney record for this area.

First Since 1952 With LeRoy Weyenberg's 26 points blazing the trail, the Ghosts then whipped Hortonville, for their first tourney-opening victory since 1952.

In tonight's 7 p.m. inaugural, Kimberly (15-4) meets Hortonville (14-4) for the sub-regional consolation title.

Gil had said, earlier, that he hasn't been eating well all week.

The veteran Papermaker pilot observed that the Terrors were THE key game tonight.

"Our big men had to watch themselves under the basket so we weren't controlling the boards," Frank observed. "That kept us from fast-breaking as we like to. When we got within three points of Appleton, I thought we'd go ahead."

"Our problem is, and has been, we don't play enough defense. Kaukauna is a good, sound defensive club." Frank stopped for a minute to think, and then mused, to no one in particular, "Well, my worries are over. This Menasha—Neenah and Oshkosh worked their way into the finals of the Menasha sub-regional tournament with easy victories here Thursday night.

Oshkosh, after being extended for a half by Menasha, gained control in the third frame

Felton and went on to a 74-50 triumph. Neenah didn't have to exert itself at any time to turn back Omro, 74-35.

The Rockets and Indians clash at 8:30 p.m. tonight for the right to meet the Kaukauna-Appleton winner here Saturday night. Menasha and Omro will square off in a 7 p.m. consolation tilt.

Jays Lack Spark

Coach Lucian Gajewski's Jays gave Oshkosh all it could handle in the first two periods and trailed by only three points at halftime. They collapsed in the third frame and were outscored 42-21 in the last two segments.

The Jays didn't display the spark they had in last Friday's game.

Pizarro Wants Chance To Pitch Regularly

Bradenton, Fla.—Pitcher Juan Pizarro says this is the season he has been waiting for — and a chance to really do something for the Milwaukee Braves.

"All I want is a chance to pitch regularly," Pizarro said Thursday. "With regular pitching comes control and with control comes confidence."

Pizarro, a 23-year-old fast ball expert, planned to meet today with General Manager John McHale for another whack at reaching a contract agreement. Pizarro said he is looking for a raise but anticipates no trouble in coming to terms.

Comets' Last-Second Loss to Stevens Point Precipitates Near-Riot

New London Drops 1-Point Decision to 'Rapids' in Another Tourney Thriller

Waupaca Tourney

Tonight's Schedule: New London vs. Waupaca Stevens Point vs. Wisconsin Rapids.

Thursday's Results: Wisconsin Rapids 64, New London 63. Stevens Point 57, Waupaca 56.

BY JOHN WELLS Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Waupaca — The thrill of two last-second victories in Waupaca sub-regional play was bested Thursday only by a near riot over a referee's decision giving Stevens Point the 1-point edge over Waupaca.

Stevens Point beat Waupaca, 57 to 56, with Di Emerich a basket made almost simultaneously with the final buzzer. Wisconsin Rapids downed New London, 64 to 63, when forward Jack Skibba dumped in a shot with two seconds to play.

Fans Corner Officials The dispute in the Point-Waupaca tilt was caused by a last-second shot of Bob Zinda which referees ruled had left Zinda's hands when the final buzzer sounded.

Fans cornered referees at the scoring table and cursed, threatened, hollered and poked the officials, but two city policemen escorted them safely to dressing rooms.

One spectator landed a glancing blow on a referee, while others threatened they would never officiate again.

Although the lead in the Point-Waupaca game changed hands often, Waupaca ended the first three quarters with narrow advantages.

With a minute to play, Stevens Point led, 55 to 54. The score held until eight seconds remained and Waupaca guard Steve Hansen was fouled by Tom Razner. Hansen calmly swished two free shots to give Waupaca a 1-point advantage with eight seconds to play. Zinda's last second shot from under the bucket decided the game.

Brown Hits 28

Top scorer was Waupaca's Dick Brown who combined 10 baskets and 8 free throws for 28 points. Stevens Point scoring honors went to Bob Zinda and Tom Razner who claimed 15 points each.

Although Point carried two men towering better than 6 foot 5 inches, and a host of

Warriors Play Creighton '5'

Mangham, Kollar, Kersten Wind Up Careers Tonight

Omaha — Marquette university winds up its basketball season tonight against Creighton with the Warriors shooting for their fourteenth victory.

Walt Mangham, Jim Kollar and Jim Kersten will wear Marquette's colors for the last time as Don Kojis, a junior, tries for two school records.

Kojis needs only 19 points to erase Mike Moran's 526 points in one season record. Kojis also will have to maintain his 21.2 points-per-game average to eclipse Moran's record 20.4. Moran set both records last season.

Marquette's record going into the game was 13-11 against 12-11 for Creighton. The Warriors defeated Creighton twice last season and hold a 25-20 lead in the series between the two schools.

ted the score at 38-all near the end of the period.

Shawano unleashed an aggressive attack in the final period and outscored Bonduel, 23-6, to grab the victory. The Indians made 11 of their 20 free throws in the final quarter.

Shawano missed nine free throws in 29 attempts while Bonduel missed only four in 21 attempts. Ron Hoppe led the winners' scoring with 18 points while Bill Krenger, totaled 13. Bonduel's scoring was evenly divided with Tom Gruenwald getting 10, Steve Nault and Bill Dussling nine and Gary VanderVelden eight.

Pulaski moved out to an early 18-10 lead. Clintonville closed the gap in the second quarter, but was never able to catch up. The Truckers pulled to within four points (44-40) mid-way in the third frame, but continuous pressing caused them to foul and Pulaski increased their lead on the free throw line—where they sank 30 out of 42. Clintonville sank 24 out of 35 free throws. Both teams scored evenly from the floor.

With 18 seconds remaining, Clintonville again closed to within four points, at 76-72, but time ran out. The Truckers missed a number of easy shots in the final period.

Pulaski's Fred Zittlow led scoring with 22 points, while Doug Sorenson had 16 and Mel Karez 15. For Clintonville, Dick Bennett led with 16 points while Jim Sutliff and Mike Zingler each had 10.

car Robertson of the top-ranked University of Cincinnati Bearcats, and Jerry West of West Virginia's Southern conference champions.

These two seniors, regarded as the best college players of the season, topped the voting by 329 sports writers and broadcasters from all parts of the country.

Rounding out the first team is Jerry Lucas, famed sophomore of Ohio State's Big 10 champions; Darrall Imhoff, 6-10 senior from California's defending NCAA champions and Tony Jackson, a junior from St. John university of New York, the defending NIT champions.

Robertson polled 311 first place votes in making the All-America for the third straight year. West, the only other repeater from the 1959 All-America, received 304. Lucas polled 253 and Imhoff 234. There was a big spread in the voting thereafter with Jackson beating out Tom Smith of St. Bonaventure for the first team, 61-58.

Smith, a junior second only to Robertson among major college scorers, was named to the second team along with sophomores Terry Dischinger of Purdue and Chet Walker of Bradley, junior Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech and senior Len Wilkens of Providence.

Lee Shaffer of North Carolina, Billy McGill of Utah, Horace Walker of Michigan State, Bill Kennedy of Temple and tiny 5-6 Dick Hickox of Miami (Fla.) were named as a third team.

Marshfield '5' Wins Over Wittenberg

Losers' Dale Liesch Hits 23 Points In Tourney Game

Schofield — Marshfield High school earned its way into tonight's championship round of the Schofield sub-regional basketball tourney by scoring a 77-67 triumph over Wittenberg here Thursday night. In the other game, Wausau defeated Mosinee, 76-66.

Marshfield led all the way with a combination of rebounds and fast breaks. Wittenberg fell behind, 22-13, at the end of the first period, but came back to within two points at the intermission, 32-30. Wittenberg experienced a disastrous third quarter, scoring only six points against Marshfield's 28. The Maroons' Don Schmidt hit two field goals and coupled with two free throws enabled Marshfield to grab a wide margin.

Wittenberg's Dale Liesch took scoring honors with 23 points, while teammate Eugene Oestreich and Marshfield's Charlie Aslakson each had 20.

AHS, Kaukauna Reach Sub-Regional Finals

last night's action. In measuring the state's sixth-ranked team, the fifteenth-rated Terrors broke a 1-1 tie on Marty Schultz' rebound goal with 2 minutes, 7 seconds gone and stayed ahead.

The Ghosts took the lead on Bill Borchert's 20-footer with their game 38 seconds old and stayed permanently ahead of their fellow "special mention" category team.

After fashioning a 19-9 first quarter lead, the rest was downhill for Kaukauna. The Ghosts doubled their margin by halftime. The outmanned Polar Bears never stopped battling, though, and outscored their conquerors by two points in the second half.

The Terrors, defensive specialists for most of the 1959-60 season, laid aside their shields last night and took up their sabers. They left a capacity throng gasping as they stormed through the Papermakers for the highest AHS point total since the 1956 state tourney opener against LaCrosse Central (87) and scorched the cords with 55.4 per cent field goal accuracy.

75 Per Cent Shooting For the 6-foot-5½ Abel, a prep version of Jerry Lucas or Oscar Robertson last night, it was the peak performance of a standout career just as it was AHS' best effort of the season. The "Big A" funneled through 15 of 20 floor shots (75 per cent shooting) and 10 of 13 free throws in logging the second highest individual total in AHS history.

The only better Terror mark was Jerry Hopfensperger's 51 points (still a conference record) against Manitowish in 1953. And, to add drama to tonight's festivities, this same Hopfensperger, now Kaukauna's coach, must map defensive strategy against Abel.

Abel's previous high was 29 points — in this season's conference opener against Green Bay West. Though AHS took a 19-11 first-quarter lead, the Papermaker zone defense restricted Abel to four points. But, in succeeding quarters, Ron had things pretty much his own way — with successive totals of 11, 13 and 12.

Don Hearden came up with a sterling, 27-point showing for the Papermakers. The flashy guard hooped five goals and made 17 of 21 in a fabulous free-throwing exhibition.

Though Abel was "Mr. Big" in the AHS victory, he had poised and competent help from seven mates who saw considerable action. Particularly, little Dave LaViolette.

While Abel was unstoppable from short and medium range, LaViolette provided the "long ball" that kept the Papermaker defense from collapsing too tightly on Ron. Before running into 4-foul trouble 2:35 before the end of the third quarter, LaViolette had popped in seven of 11 shots—five of them from 20-30 feet out. LaViolette wound up with his career high of 16 points besides playing a driving floor game.

AHS took a surprising 10-point lead (17-7) in the first quarter as its zone press gave the Papermakers some trouble.

With Hearden—who was held basket-less in the first period—catching fire, Kimberly hacked away at the Terror lead. With 3:11 left in the half, the margin had been reduced to one point (30-29).

5-Point Lead Refusing to wilt under the pressure exerted by Kimberly, the Terrors rammed home nine more points—including four each by LaViolette and Abel—to assume a 39-34 halftime lead.

Held in check the other three stanzas, Darrell Jansen went on a personal point crusade in the third quarter and brought the Papermakers back within one point (46-45).

The Terrors pulled out the stops and outdid Kimberly in its own specialty — the fast break. In less than two minutes, AHS reeled off 10 points while allowing the Papermakers only a Hearden free throw, to grab a 56-46 bulge.

Abel threw in a short pivot shot; Nussbaum scored his only basket of the night on a fast break; Abel hit another off the pivot; LaViolette rang the bell after a steal and Pete Treiber caged a pair of free throws.

Kimberly crept to within six points (66-60) in the first minute of the final period, but Abel stamped out all remaining Papermaker hope. He fired in AHS' next eight points — while drawing only a 2-point reply from Hearden — for a 74-62 lead with five minutes left.

Abel was also AHS' best rebounder, but Schultz and Paul VanderHeyden lent invaluable assistance.

Tom Rooyakkers and Jansen gave Kimberly its main board strength. Rooyakkers also came close to matching Abel's shooting percentage. The big junior sank eight of 11 shots (.727) enroute to an 18-point performance.

Kimberly made 22 of 59 field shots (compared with 31 of 56 for AHS) for an average of .373.

In scoring its sixth straight victory, Appleton stopped Kimberly for the first time since the 1958 tournament. The margin of defeat was Kimberly's largest of the season — the other three were by three points each.

Early Superiority In contrast to the suspense that held sway until the last five minutes of the curtain-raiser, Kaukauna made its superiority felt early. Working the ball well on offense and defending aggressively, the Ghosts had too much size, balance and finesse for the Little Nine conference runner-up.

Weyenberg, whose duel with Abel tonight could be a sizer, proved a good outside shot as well as an inside destroyer. Weyenberg dropped in eight of 20 field shots and pin-pointed 10 of 11 free throws.

The lanky pivotman was abetted by a reliable trio of 4-goal scorers: Bill Borchert, Myron Zachowski and Jim Steger. Borchert, a nifty floorman, sank eight of 11 free throws to swell his point total to 16.

Shoot .345 In all, the Ghosts made 23 of 66 shots (.348) while Hortonville hit 17 of 56 (.304). Hortonville's Gary Kohl gave an excellent shooting display, making eight of 19 from the field and six of seven for the line for the game's second best total of 22 points.

Both teams sparked at the free throw line—81 per cent for Hortonville and 76.7 for Kaukauna.

Kaukauna had little trouble with the Polar Bears' press, running up a 10 - point first quarter edge.

The Ghosts were at their best in the second quarter, meeting 11 of 21 shots and increasing their margin to 41-21. Steger meshed three from the corner and Weyenberg added two hooks and a rebound to lead the smooth attack.

Kaukauna also registered the first seven points of the second half, its lead zooming to 48-21. Thereafter, the fighting hosts made inroads into the Kaukauna margin.

Kimberly crept to within six points (66-60) in the first

the two stadium improvements on the part of the Packers and the city were underlined in statements at the commission session.

Mayor Roman Denissen pointed out that the condition of West High stadium was such that it would soon have to be abandoned. He said it was pointless to spend money to improve the high school stadium.

Lights First

"First of all, the city doesn't need more seats (for high school games). It needs lights. We promised the people this would be a field for high school football as well as Packer games. I feel keenly about this, having participated in the campaign," he said.

Denissen was referring to the campaign before the 1956 referendum on stadium bonds when voters were promised that the new stadium would be used for games of the high school on the side of the Fox river where it was located, as well as for rental to the Packers.

"We need seats first. We must have 5,000 seats now. If we helped on lights, it would be to help the city because it helped us. That would be the thinking. Lights don't mean anything to us at the present time," Leicht said in presenting the Packers' priority.

Receipts In Mind

In posting $50,000 as a start to rent negotiations, the commission attached a provision that after two years the figure would be reviewed with Packers' gate receipts in mind. This was offered to take into account any Packer misfortunes.

With the Packers facing rising costs, Leicht said the $50,000 figure was out of the question.

The seating addition would cost the Packers about $15,000 a year for 10 years. The original $30,000 rent would boost stadium annual costs to $45,000, $5,000 less than paid Green Bay in 1959, Leicht said. It was possible the Packers could add this $5,000 to rent, he said.

The 1956 rental agreement was based on a plan outlined in the referendum. It called for the Packers to pay $30,000 yearly, half of the original stadium bond issue of $60,000 and interest on this half. The final stadium cost, however, was about $1,200,000.

Kimberly crept to within six points (66-60) in the first

Plans Complete for City-Wide Girl Scout Week Observance

Kaukauna — Girl Scouts in store windows on bed making, meeting tenderfoot requirements, making cookies, camping, hospitality and homemaking, community badge work, knot tying, metal craft and sewing.

Girl Scouts will wear uniforms to church services on Sunday and are to meet in the basement of the respective churches to march in as a group. Heading the Girl Scouts at Bethany Lutheran will be Mrs. Glen Schauss while Mrs. Howard Veldman will have charge of girls at the Immanuel United Church of Christ.

Girl Scouts of Village to Open Week With Mass

Little Chute — Girl Scouts and their leaders will open Girl Scout week in the village by attending mass and receiving communion Sunday at the 9 a.m. mass at St. John's Catholic church.

Participants are to assemble in the social room of the grade school to form a line of march into the church. Members of Troops 205 and 213 will carry the flags.

Window displays showing Girl Scout craft work, badge work and aims will be shown throughout the week. The displays were arranged by Intermediate Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Harold Vandenberg and by Brownies under the direction of Mrs. Ervin Van Dyke.

Leaders and Troop committee members will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the village hall to discuss the annual father-daughter banquet scheduled April 28.

Jack Conlon Slams 235-622

Kaukauna — Jack Conlon blasted a 235 singleton and 622 series to lead bowlers in the Businessmen's loop at the Bowling bar.

Other honor counts were posted by Mark Nagan, 226, 569; Don Mangold, 555; Lawrence Schmidt, 229; Wilmer Runge, 557, and Carl DeBruin, 229, 574.

Tony Welhouse rapped a 555 trio to pace the Darby league at the Bowling bar.

Kaukauna Man Posts Bond for Failing To Stop at Arterial

Kaukauna — Robert Fink, 22, 821 Spring street, Kaukauna, signed a waiver and stipulation of guilt of failing to stop for an arterial and deposited bond of $14.75 at the police station.

The bond has been accepted by Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace.

Kaukauna Man Fined For Being Disorderly

Kaukauna — Richard G. Van Hammond, 21, 211 W. Tenth street, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct when arraigned before Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, and was fined $30.

Van Hammond was arrested by police on a complaint of a citizen about the youth causing disturbance at a private home.

Utility Seeks Bids for Iron Removal Unit

Project Scheduled At No. 8 Well to be First Installation

Kaukauna — The electric and water department of the city is accepting sealed bids for the furnishing and installation of iron removal equipment at No. 8 well until 4 p.m. March 18.

Bids are to be filed with William Ranquette, manager of the Kaukauna utility. Contract documents and plans and specifications may be seen at the local utility office or at the Jerry Donohue Engineering company, Sheboygan, engineers for the project.

Other Units Planned This will be the first iron removal unit installed in the city and is being added at the well drilled in 1959. When the pumping station was built, sufficient room was this type of unit.

Indications show a heavy iron content in water from the new well and the addition of special equipment will not only be better for customers, it will prolong the life of water lines for the utility, according to officials.

Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon has indicated this is only the first in a general move to install similar equipment at all city wells and anticipated at 1962 completion date for the installation. Contractors may secure plans and specifications from the engineering firm upon payment of a fee, returnable after bids have been studied, unless the contractor does not submit a bona fide bid.

Rural Kaukauna Man Forfeits Bond for Public Intoxication

Kimberly — Melvin Zittlow, route 2, Kaukauna, forfeited bond of $35.50 when he failed to appear in police justice court Wednesday night to answer charges of public intoxication.

Zittlow had signed a stipulation of guilt and posted bond at the police station. He was arrested by village police earlier in the week after a complaint of a citizen.

211-504 Set Pace in Women's Action

Little Chute — Marie Reybrock posted a 211 singleton and Rosemary Keil rapped a 504 series to share honors in the Tuesday Women's league at the Recreation alleys.

Other honor counts reported included Marge Vanderloop, 196; Ada Bolwerk, 198, 501; Ethel Van Nuland, 509; Peggy Van Rooy, 200, and Margaret Randerson, 513.

Kruegers Win 4th Straight In City Basketball Action

Kaukauna — Krueger Furniture won its fourth straight in second half play in the City Basketball league Sunday to trail Arnie's Bar by one-half game. Kruegers rolled to a 75-48 win over Wiggie Foods, holder of a 1-4 mark.

The second game saw Shamrock Bar down Thico 57-42 for its second win in four starts while the losers have lost five straight.

Kruegers took a big opening period lead and were never in danger, outscoring the losers in every frame. The score was 21-8 at the quarter and 37-17 at the halfway mark. By the end of the third frame the winners held a 55-34 advantage.

Bill Simon led the winners with 21 points while Jim Walsh scored 17 and Tom Bell hit 14. Ed Vanden Heuvel scored 16 for the losers while Marcel Lamers and Dick Kempen each registered 13.

Irish Victory Shamrock led 13-10 at the end of the first quarter and by halftime had increased the advantage to 29-18. The winners continued to dominate play in the third period having a 14-10 scoring advantage while in the fourth frame both squads scored 14 points.

Jack Coenen scored 18 points and Phil Haas added 12 for the winners while the losers were paced by Paul Jahnke with 17 markers and Russ Tittle with 14.

Plans Commission Reelects Officers

By-Laws, Articles of Agreement Approved at Quarterly Meeting

Officers were reelected and by-laws and the agreement for joint planning cooperation were approved at a meeting of the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission Thursday night.

Charles Wood, Kimberly, chairman, Nick Jansen, Little Chute, secretary-treasurer, and Donald Colburn, Neenah, vice chairman, were reelected.

The articles of agreement accepted by the commission outline functions and duties of the commission to member municipalities and the part each municipality plays in the commission. The articles now will go before each municipality's governing body for approval.

By-Laws Approved

Commission by-laws were approved with some changes. A paragraph providing for alternate or substitute members of the executive committee was placed in the articles of agreement. It already is in the by-laws. The alternate can be appointed by the member municipality governing official subject to approval of the government's board or council and certification of the planning commission.

This was done, Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly, said, to be sure the by-laws could be acted upon by the commission without requiring approval of the governing body of each municipality.

Clarify Position

Fulcer said this to clarify Neenah Mayor Bell's stand that the by-laws, being strict rules for commission procedure, should not have to go back to the municipality for approval, changes or amendments.

No provision had been made in the by-laws for amendments. Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton, suggested a number of amendments be made according to Roberts rules of order. This would require a two-thirds vote of the commission, provided the change would not be contrary to the articles of agreement. The commission accepted his plan.

Regional planner, Kenneth L. Schellie, Indianapolis, outlined the 3-year work program of Fox Cities planning. He cited three functions of his firm: to maintain a local office in Appleton; to give local assistance to municipalities on a request basis; and to work on a comprehensive plan due in 1962.

Outlines Program

The 3-year program consists of working in the community to gather data the first year; preliminary plans of a regional nature but based on municipality data the second year, and final plans of a local and regional nature the third year, he explained.

The work municipalities will receive copies of reports. This way each community will know the working parts of the overall plan, Schellie explained.

He recommended each community set up committees to study the reports so that they could be explained to the governing bodies.

Sherwood Pastor Gets One of Five Reassignments

Five priests in the Green Bay diocese were transferred in a series of appointments announced today by Bishop Stanislaus Bona.

The Rev. Henry Schmitt, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Sherwood, since 1953, has been named pastor of St. Mary church, Chilton. The post has been open since Jan. 29, when the Rev. Joseph Bartelme, pastor, died.

The Rev. Raymond Conard, Father Bartelme's assistant pastor, has been administering to the spiritual needs of the Chilton congregation and its Klotten mission.

Father Schmitt, 54, is a native of Two Rivers. He was ordained in 1930 and served as temporary assistant at St. Mary parish, Chilton, for four months in 1930. He also served as assistant at St. Patrick church, Green Bay; Lourdes, Marinette, and Most Precious Blood, New London.

He was pastor of St. Philomena parish, Birmamwood, from 1934 to 1940 and St. Francis parish, Gresham, from 1940 to 1953.

While at Sherwood, Father Schmitt directed construction of the new parish school, completed in 1957. He will be replaced there by the Rev. Michael Drexler, who now is pastor at St. Philomena parish, Birmamwood. He was ordained in 1939 and at one time was assistant pastor at St. Mary, Kaukauna.

The Rev. Lawrence Loeke, chaplain at the Kewaunee hospital since September, 1959, will take charge of the Birmamwood parish. Among the parishes he has served in are St. Mary, Greenville, and Sacred Heart, Oshkosh.

Want Former Shawano Man to Run for State Attorney General Job

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Influential party men are urging Robert Maritz, former Shawano assemblyman and 1957 speaker of the Wisconsin assembly, to run for the Republican nomination for attorney general this year.

The young lawyer has declined comment on the possibility of a candidacy but has told friends that he would be reluctant to resign from his position with a national motor transport organization which he took two years ago. He now lives in Madison.

Suspend Three Prison Guards

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—Three reformatory guards were suspended for 30 days each here Thursday for negligence in failing to detect Monday's over-the-wall escape by an inmate.

The guards, Donald DeLair, Francis Lasee and Gordon Ohnhaas, were informed of the action by M. A. Skaff, reformatory superintendent, and Norman Nuss, assistant superintendent in charge of the custodial force.

The inmate who escaped, James Newburn, 28, was arrested by Wausau police about 11 a.m. Monday before his departure from the reformatory shortly after 5 a.m. was known. Newburn was serving concurrent 20-year terms for armed robbery.

DeLair was cited for giving an inaccurate count of inmates in the dormitory where he was on duty. He made his count thinking the man was in a bathroom. Lasee was said to have accepted DeLair's count without questioning it. Ohnhaas was cited for failing to see the prisoner scale the wall. The escape should have been seen from Ohnhaas' tower, it was said.

Burial will be in the Synco cemetery.

Survivors include two brothers, William and Henry, both of the town of Union; and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Janke, route 1, Black Creek, and Mrs. Alvin Fenske, Weyauwega.

Arthur E. Witte

Arthur E. Witte, 78, route 2, Seymour, died unexpectedly Thursday evening in Green Bay after a short illness. He was born Feb. 22, 1884, in Seymour, and had farmed in the Seymour area all his life.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Assembly of God church, Seymour. Friends may call at the Muehl Funeral home, Seymour, after 2 p.m. Sunday until 10:30 a.m. Monday, then at the church until services. Burial will be in Seymour City cemetery.

Witte is survived by three brothers, George, of Caldwell, Idaho, Harvey, Neenah, and Robert, Joliet, Ill.; and two sisters, Miss Sarrella Witte and Miss Irene Witte, both of Seymour.

Mrs. Henrietta Barnes

Mrs. Henrietta Barnes, formerly of Appleton, died in Chillicothe, Ohio, Wednesday evening after a long illness.

Mrs. Barnes was born in Appleton and lived here most of her life. Several years ago she moved to Ohio to live with her daughter, Mrs. Kon Mat-chuk.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at the Bretschneider Funeral home, with the Rev. Ralph T. Alton, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be in w. until Saturday noon and from 1 to 2 p.m. Saturday may call at the funeral home at St. Mark Lutheran church, from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Synco, where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Private chuk: two brothers, George services for the family will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday at the funeral home, two grandchildren.

Mrs. Ephraim Grignon Dies Less Than Two Weeks After Husband

Mrs. Ephraim P. Grignon, 85, of 719 S. Memorial drive, died at 9 a.m. today after a long illness.

Her husband, grandson of Appleton's earliest settler and a member of one of the oldest pioneer families in Wisconsin, died Feb. 21.

Mrs. Grignon was born on Oct. 10, 1874, in Lawton, Mich. Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Mary Catholic church, with burial in St. Mary cemetery. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Sunday at the Ellenbecker Funeral home, where the rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Abraham Lewenstein, and one son, Paul, both of Appleton; and six grandchildren.

Store Closed By Tax Men

Rau Jewelry Stock Being Checked by Agents

Agents of the federal internal revenue department have closed the George Rau Jewelry store, 101 E. College avenue, and posted a notice on the door saying the stock is being seized for nonpayment of taxes.

Agents from the Green Bay and Appleton internal revenue offices today declined comment on the case. At 1 p.m. today they were checking through the store's stock—all of it marked down for clearance.

The clearance sale was being held because Rau had been informed by the building's owner, Douglas G. Hyde, 301 Lopus street, Menasha, that the lease would not be renewed.

A lease renting the building to another Appleton jeweler was signed in December, and Rau was given until March 1 to move.

Wednesday, while the new renter, Sam Belinke, was taking measurements to prepare remodeling plans, federal agents closed the store. Rau was not available for comment today.

Puppet Show Planned For Story Hour

Gillham Held For Murder Trial in May

Waupaca Justice Ends 3-Day Hearing In Jan. 8 Slaying

Waupaca — Garvin Lee Gillham, 33, Chicago, was ordered held Thursday for trial in the May circuit court session on a charge of first degree murder in the Jan. 8 death of Frank Heideman, 40, route 2, New London, two counts of attempted murder and a charge of doing great bodily harm.

Justice of the Peace George Whalen ordered the trial after hearing three days of testimony during a preliminary hearing. A defense motion to strike the attempted murder charges was denied.

Gillham's attorney, Allan Cain, Appleton, contended the state failed to prove intent to kill in Gillham's wounding of his former wife and Waupaca County Patrolman Lyle McCully.

Gillham's nephew, David, 20, testified earlier that while he was driving his uncle from Chicago to New London, Jan. 8, his uncle told him he was planning to kill his former wife, Heideman, her employer, and himself if his wife refused to return with them.

Close Questioning
Cain questioned Mrs. Gillham closely about how Heideman knocked Gillham down with a pitchfork and drew from Dr. John Monstad, Gillham's physician, an admission Gillham may have been cut on the left hand by the pitchfork.

Sheriff Ray Abrahamson testified no blood was found on the pitchfork when it was examined under a flashlight after the shooting. David Gillham and Mrs. Gillham told nearly identical stories about the Jan. 8 shootings but both said they had not witnessed the exchange of shots between McCully and Gillham.

Testimony brought out this story:

Story of Shooting
Mrs. Gillham came to the car when Gillham and his nephew arrived at the farm. Gillham fired after her when she fled to the barn and hid behind a cow. Heideman knocked Gillham down and forced him to a corner of the barn and then went into the house to call the police.

When the farmer returned, Gillham, after threatening his former wife, shot Heideman while they were arguing and then emptied his 5-shot revolver into the farmer as he lay on the ground.

Mrs. Gillham fled to the house and hid in the attic where Gillham shot her, although she testified she did not think he could see her and protested that he did not want to shoot her because he still loves her.

McCully arrived in answer to the police call and while attempting to contact the sheriff on the radio, Gillham shot the microphone out of his hand, wounding him. In an en-

Money Problems

Peninsula Players' Property to be Sold

Sturgeon Bay — Money problems have become too much for the Peninsula Players. The federal government is seeking $4,000 or $5,000 in taxes and the Bank of Sturgeon Bay has started foreclosure action to regain some of the $28,000 it loaned to the theater group. The theater's property will be sold this month.

The admission taxes were collected by the theater but not turned over to the government.

The troubles began three years ago when the theater constructed a $40,000 permanent roof to replace a canvas canopy over the seats. Preferred stock was sold to finance the construction, but an observer said that not enough stock was sold to finance the modernization plan. Current operating revenues were drained to meet payments. No dividends have been paid on the preferred stock since that time.

Struggled Through Season
The bank loaned $5,000 to the theater last summer to enable it to struggle through its 26th season.

The company's property will be sold in Fish Creek at 1:30 p.m. March 21. The internal revenue office at Green Bay is accepting bids.

It is expected that the Bank of Sturgeon Bay will bid enough so that it can take control of the theater and attempt to find a buyer or operator.

Ten individuals or groups have contacted the bank about operating the theater, C. H. Herlach, executive vice president of the bank, said. Four were from Evanston, Ill., one from Sheboygan and none from Fish Creek or Sturgeon Bay.

Mrs. Rodion Rathbone, daughter-in-law of actor Basil Rathbone, owns the theater. She lives in New York and has been ill for several years. The theater attracted between 20,000 and 25,000 persons to nine or 10 plays each summer. Ticket prices ranged from $1.20 to $3.60.

Appleton Council Joins AHS Team's Tourney Backers

The Appleton city council has joined the parade of well-wishers for the Appleton High school basketball team in its play in the Hortonville sub-regional tournament.

The council's resolution, submitted by Ald. Bogan and signed by Mayor Mitchell, reads in part:

"Whereas the Appleton basketball team has again shown its outstanding leadership in Fox Valley conference basketball, the council warmly congratulates the team for its magnificent athletic ability and wishes it good fortune and Godspeed in its fight for the state championship."

The resolution was presented AHS Coach Richard Emanuel during Thursday's pep rally.

Layout of an interceptor sewer system in the eastern part of the town of Menasha and construction of a sewer disposal plant is under consideration by the town board as one of five possibilities for the handling of sewage disposal. The town is under order by the state board of health to solve its sewage problems. If the town cannot be joined to the Neenah-Menasha sewerage plant, then the above plan known as plan No. 4, estimated to cost $1 million, is likely to be followed since it is favored by the state board. The interceptor sewers shown by the heavy black lines would follow County Trunk P, midway road and old airport road with several smaller mains being joined to them. The $1 million estimate is merely for the treatment plant and interceptors and does not include the cost of bringing the sewers into each subdivision and to the homes nor the operating cost.

State Finds Many Wells Unsafe in Area Near School

Forming Municipal District May be Cheapest Solution

Menasha — A high percentage of homes in the area immediately north of the Spring Road school in the town of Menasha have contaminated wells, Oscar Eggers, district sanitary engineer of the state board of health, said today.

He said he had written a letter to the committee of residents of that area suggesting another meeting be held. Mrs. Helen C. Schultz, co-chairman, said a committee meeting is being called to arrange a meeting with state officials.

She also said a petition is being prepared in connection with the well and sewer problem.

Eggers indicated that establishment of a municipal water system for the area might be less expensive than each household drilling a deeper well.

The state has approved drilling of a new well for the Spring Road school to replace the present well, condemned as contaminated.

The school for several months has been having its drinking water brought in from a Menasha dairy. The new well at the school might become usable by the entire area through formation of a sanitary district.

Pipe from Main Well
One main well could be drilled for the entire area in conformance with state board of health requirements and piped to the homes through pressure mains.

The district sanitary engineers checked the homes in the area as to the conditions of their wells and Eggers said a high percentage were in need of improved water facilities. Some homes were on the borderline and it was hard to evaluate them exactly. The district involved extends about a half mile west of Highway 41 and a quarter mile north of Highway 150.

The state sanitary engineer also indicated that Neenah had been asked as to the possibility of providing city water for this area but the city felt the extension of a water main would be quite expensive and impractical.

Twin City Deaths

Mrs. John Dietz, Sr.

Neenah — Mrs. John Dietz, Sr., 80, 166 Gruenwald avenue, died at 1:55 p.m. Thursday after being in poor health for a year. She was born April 20, 1879, in New Holstein but lived in Menasha most of her life.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Laemmrich Funeral home with the Rev. John C. Hanchett, pastor of the First Congregational church, in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. today.

Survivors are four daughters, Mrs. Eva Birling, route 2, Menasha, Mrs. Gus Wagner, Milwaukee, Mrs. Rose Holt, Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Lawrence Crooks, Neenah; three sons, John, Jr., and Elmer, both of Menasha, and Leslie, San Diego, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Spang, Menasha, and Mrs. Adolph Meyer, Boyd, Wis.; 22 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Aloys G. Bayer

Menasha — Mrs. Aloys G. Bayer, 61, 340 Second street, died at 10:45 p.m. Thursday after being in poor health for 34 years. She was born Feb. 1, 1899 at Brown Deer, near Milwaukee, and had lived in Menasha for 38 years. She was a past president of the Germania auxiliary and of the Eagles auxiliary and a member of the Sacred Heart Mission club and St. Anne's society of St. Mary's Catholic church.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Laemmrich Funeral home.

Survivors are her husband; two sons, Donald and George of Menasha; three brothers, Elmer Gengler of Compton, Calif., Ervin Gengler of Deadwood, Ore., and Francis Gengler of St. Louis, Mo.; a sister, Mrs. Eleanore Lilleskov of Los Angeles and five grandchildren.

Age Incorrect

Menasha — The age of Alex Waldock, 636 State street, was incorrectly listed as 71 in police records on a Wednesday speeding conviction. His age is 61. Police records have been altered to reflect the correct age.

Menasha School Survey

Modern Education Needs Best Facilities, Says Study Team

Menasha—Education in the 20th century "involves more than a Mark Hopkins on one end of the log and a pupil on the other," the Northwestern university school survey team opined in its report on the Menasha school system.

This is the fifth in a series of articles on the evaluation of Menasha Public schools by Northwestern university's education department.

Although the survey was primarily on curriculum, school facilities were reviewed because the condition and quality of the school plant is believed important in the learning process.

As for location, all seemed suited to their natural attendance areas. Clovis-Grove presently is not in the best place to suit its area, but with population shifts to the northeast, the school will "become increasingly well located in the future as intended."

Sites Seem Too Small
Several school sites appeared too small to the evaluators who cite standards of school construction experts. Grade schools should have five acres plus one additional acre per 100 students; junior high schools, 10 acres plus one per 100; and senior high schools, 20 acres plus one acre per 100. Only Jefferson school can meet those standards, and that only because of adjacent Jefferson park.

available to pupils. Limited play areas cause staggered recess periods, the survey team noted. Buying of more land is suggested.

Parking facilities at all schools are not adequate, and some are in high traffic areas, according to the report.

On school sites, the board was advised to blackout play

Loss Tops $1,500 in Menasha Home Fire

Menasha — Fire damage estimated from $1,500 to $1,800 occurred this morning in the Thomas Kuether apartment on the second floor of 704 Fifth street.

Fire Chief Ed Heim said the fire apparently started in the area near a toaster, left plugged in on the kitchen counter.

Oshkosh Council Buys 22-Acre Site

Oshkosh — The Oshkosh council Wednesday night approved purchase of a 22-acre site known as the Merle Kurtz farm between Highway 45 and Oregon street south of the city. The property was purchased for $42,500 from the Oshkosh Industrial Development corporation which acquired the property recently. The site will be used for light industrial development.

1,065 Immunizations Given Menasha Pupils

Triple Dosages Go to Kindergarteners, First Graders; Boosters to Other Classes

Menasha — Immunizations were administered in the last two weeks to 1,065 Menasha public and parochial school children. Of the dosages, 300 were triple immunizations administered the first time to children and 765 were boosters of diphtheria and tetanus protection.

Kindergarten and first grade children received the triple vaccine, which protects against whooping cough as well as diphtheria and tetanus. Boosters were given those in second to eighth grades.

Drs. George Hildebrand, Paul Wainwright and John Nebel took part in the immunization program.

Miss Lillian A. Lyon, school nurse, was in charge of the programs at the Menasha public schools and at St. Patrick and St. John schools.

Miss Alice Dillon, city nurse, handled arrangements for St. Mary, Trinity Lutheran and Bethel Lutheran schools.

By schools, the dosages were:

Clovis - Grove — Triple vaccine, first time, 23, and booster, 97;
Nicolet — Triple, 15, booster, 71;
Jefferson — Triple, 23, booster, 50;
Butte des Morts — Triple, 30, booster, 85;
St. Patrick — Triple, 13, booster, 210;
St. John — Triple, 45, booster, 174;
St. Mary — Triple, 86, booster, 195;
Trinity — Triple, 11, booster, 44, at Butte des Morts;
Bethel — Triple, 19, booster, 18, at Clovis - Grove.
Menasha Junior High — Booster, 94.

Dixie Die-Hards Losing Support For Segregation

Southern Leaders' Choice Is Compromise or Go Down Fighting

BY SAMUEL LUBELL

A strange, new form of political brinkmanship seems likely to dominate the next stage of the school desegregation struggle.

Mainly it will reflect the fact that, for the first time since the supreme court's 1954 ruling, public opinion in the south is split into two conflicting streams of feeling on the school issue.

The more extreme segregationists still propose defying the supreme court even if it means abandoning the public school system. On the other hand, particularly in the larger cities, a growing number of southerners want to be spared the turmoil and disruption of closed schools.

In the face of this split how far will the south's political leaders carry their resistance to the supreme court? Will they find a way of pulling back at the very edge of the brink or will they plunge over and close down the public schools?

Left to their own desires the people of Atlanta probably would prefer some small degree of integration. In five different neighborhoods my interviews showed a two-to-one proportion in favor of keeping the schools open even if it meant mixing some Negro and white children.

Under Georgia law, however, any school that is integrated is cut off from state education funds.

Many Atlanta residents gloomily predicted "the schools will be closed for a year." One Georgia Tech engineer had arranged to send his four children to relatives in other states, "although I don't like their being away from home."

Takes Second Job
A salesman had taken a second job as a photographer "so I'll be able to send my girl to private school." One storekeeper's wife complained, "We can't find a private school that will take our child. They're all filled up."

Other persons, feeling the schools will stay open, are preparing their children for integration—often with much trepidation.

A 30-year-old hardware clerk talked of making sure that "when the schools are mixed the Negroes won't bother my kids more than once." He was teaching his two sons judo and wrestling. "Next Christmas," he added, "they are going to get boxing gloves."

Young or Old
In another Atlanta family a sharp argument broke out over whether it was better to start integration with first-grade children or with high-school youths.

"Begin with the youngest children," contended the middle-aged wife of a building trades worker. "Little children don't have prejudices. They won't say mean things to each other. They won't know the difference."

"That's the trouble," interrupted her married daughter. "You should start with high school kids who know the difference and won't mix. If they play together as kids, the girls will get to like the Negro boys. They'll grow up and intermarry."

Deep Reluctance
Such fears illustrate the deep reluctance with which the prospect of even a small degree of integration is accepted. Most people, in fact,

Mouth-to-Mouth Artificial Respiration, the newest American Red Cross lifesaving technic, is a part of the first aid course being taught pupils of St. John school in Menasha. In this demonstration, Michael Le Roy, the victim, was to receive the "airway," a device which depresses the victim's tongue to prevent his choking on it, from his rescuer, Dan Usky, who would blow through it to force air into Michael's lungs. Another student in the course is Suzanne Fisher.

In Red Cross Courses

'Mouth-to-Mouth' Breathing Most Recent Lifesaving Method

Menasha — "Rescue breathing," the latest-adopted American Red Cross lifesaving method, now is part of all first aid courses taught under auspices of the Menasha chapter, Chairman Linus Pfankuch reports.

First aid and water safety programs of the Menasha Red Cross chapter are two of the organization's community services dependent on success of the $10,117 fund drive now in progress. Locally, the Neenah and Menasha chapters sponsor a blood program which provides blood at no charge to residents.

Sponsored 10 Classes
In the last fiscal year, the chapter sponsored 10 first aid classes and issued 184 certificates, an increase of 57 over the previous year. Besides the time for which instructors were paid by industries and schools, 58 volunteer hours were given.

In line with the national Red Cross effort to save lives by "making every American a swimmer and every swimmer a lifesaver," the Menasha chapter sponsored 27 water safety courses in 1959. Of the 452 certificates issued, 122 went to novices, 172 to beginners, 46 to intermediates, 11 have been won over only because of a sharper dislike of the alternative of closed schools. As one city worker put it, "I don't want my children to associate with Negroes. But shutting the schools will set Georgia back fifteen years and Georgia is already at the bottom of the bucket on education."

Among the segregationists, not alone in Atlanta but through the whole south, relatively few think that the schools can be kept separate forever. The older people are apt to say, "It has to come, I guess, but I've lived all my life without seeing any mixing of the races and I'd let it wait until after I'm gone."

Others favor closing the schools "for a while" as a matter of tactics. A taxicab driver in New Orleans explained, "They'll have to mix the schools sometime, but if you let the Negroes win too easily there won't be any getting along with them."

Go Down Fighting
Still other segregationists leave the impression of wanting to go down fighting for a cause they feel is righteous even if it is doomed to be lost.

One Little Rock resident who was resigned to some integration remarked, "It's not what you think but what you have to accept." He then pulled out his wallet and showed me a newspaper clipping of a speech in which Gov. Orval Faubus declared, "I'd do it again," if faced with the same choice.

"Faubus stood for a principle even though he knew he was going to be beaten," declared the man with the clipping. "I'd vote for him for president or senator or any office he wants."

This is the choice that many southern political leaders are facing: should they emulate Gov. Faubus in "going down fighting for a lost cause," or should they accept some compromise that would keep the schools open? (Copyright 1960)

Two Renamed By Mayor to Appeals Board

Plans Commission Opposes Rezoning Of Three Parcels

Neenah — Morris Kuchenbecker and Fred Krenger were reappointed to the board of appeals for 3-year terms by Mayor Bell Wednesday night and the council confirmed the appointments.

The plans commission reported it was recommending that no prohibition of basement construction in areas with a high water table be made since the building code excludes foundation draining and all other sub-surface draining from the sanitary sewer system.

Ald. Harold Young reported the plans commission had been advised by the city attorney that zoning changes were not needed to use certain lots on E. Columbian avenue for parking purposes.

Zoning Requests
The plans commission also recommended rejecting three petitions for zoning changes because it would create spot zoning. These were the petitions of William G. Muller for a commercial zone at Winneconne avenue and Henry street, Miss Myrtle Becker for rezoning the property at 91 S. Lake street and Paul E. Weigt for rezoning to commercial the property at 800 Main street.

City Clerk R. V. Hauser said the three petitioners had told him they were withdrawing their petitions so a council hearing would not be needed. City Atty. Charles Schaller wondered if the petitioners thought their requests had been rejected since the plans commission was recommending no change be made. He said the council is the one that makes the change and of the objections of the plans commission.

Street Lights
The council ordered installation of two street lights on Quarry lane between Oak and Reed streets and one on the 100 block on W. North Water street. Ald. Paul Hansen also asked that a street light be installed between Oak street and Higgins avenue on Quarry lane.

Ald. Hansen also proposed a study of dead end streets so that reflective signs or other warning devices could be erected to indicate a dead end street. The public protection committee is to make the study.

Michigan Man Flown In for Treatment at Theda Clark Hospital

Neenah — An Escanaba, Mich., man, injured in an accident there Monday, was flown by private plane to the Winnebago county airport at Oshkosh Tuesday and then rushed by Larry's Ambulance service to Theda Clark hospital for treatment by a Neenah specialist.

Frank Trotter, 49, Escanaba, was ripping up trees with a bulldozer Monday when a big branch snapped off and hit him on the head. He was reported to have received a double skull fracture with considerable pressure on the brain. His condition was listed as fair.

Driver Forfeits

Menasha — A forfeiture of $5 and costs was accepted today by Police Justice Arthur J. Ales from Miss Patricia A. Redlin, 837 Zemlock street, Neenah. She was arrested Wednesday afternoon for ignoring the stop sign at Tayco and Chute streets.

Bank Booths Set Up For Red Cross Drive

Neenah — Booths have been set up in the two Neenah banks for receiving donations to the Neenah Red Cross chapter now conducting its annual fund drive. Mrs. Arthur Kessler, chairman for the bank booths, announced today.

Additional workers added to the volunteers stationed at the banks are Mrs. Phil W. by Mrs. Daisy Bruhl, child-stone, Mrs. Kenneth Wruck, Mrs. V. G. Springer and Mrs. Martin Thyssen.

Pigs Killed In Barn Fire

Clintonville Farmer Estimates Loss in Blaze at $5,000

Clintonville — A barn fire discovered about 9:30 p.m. Thursday at a farm owned by Roy and Raymond Jannusch, route 1, Clintonville, claimed 14 feeder pigs, a number of ducks, a nearly new chopper track and wagon, and between 20 and 25 tons of hay and straw. Roy Jannusch estimated the loss at $5,000.

The Clintonville volunteer rural fire department was called and neighbors assisted the firemen by hauling water in milk cans to save a portion of the L-shaped barn.

The brothers live with their mother on another farm about one-quarter of a mile west of the fire.

Cause of the fire was not known. The men said they carried insurance on the buildings. They were able to save nine heifers and 10 brood sows.

Reports Breakin

Oshkosh — Southgate Motors on Highway 47 in the town of Menasha reported to the sheriff's office at 8:30 this morning that someone had sawed off the lock on the garage door and entered the building. Nothing was found to be missing. The breakin occurred after 9 p.m. Thursday.

70 Farmers Make County Swine Tour

Visit Two Herds; See Practices In Operation

Oshkosh — About 70 Winnebago county farmers made a swine tour to visit the herds at the farms of E. W. Atkins and Sons, route 2, Neenah, and Ralph and Roy Luedtke, Larsen, Monday. They observed management practices in operation.

The Atkins have been in the swine business for about 13 years. This year the herd average in litter size was 138 pigs saved from 15 sows. The best 10 are saved each year as replacement animals.

At the Luedtke farm, the group observed a low-cost finishing building to fatten hogs from the 40 pound weight to market age. The Luedtke brothers have two units under one cover holding 65 pigs each. Presently they are fattening hogs from 40 pounds to 200 pounds in 90 days.

Accompanying the group was Fred Giesler, extension animal husbandman of the college of agriculture. He commented on general management practices and pointed out that a 10-month old pig will consume three gallons of water per day.

The tour was set up by Donald T. Tripp, assistant agricultural agent, in cooperation with Bill DiVall, Winnebago High school agricultural teacher.

Area Homemakers Hold Workshop on Savory Sandwiches

Neenah — Reminiscent of the days of grandma's quilting bees when a flock of neighborhood women coupled accomplishment with conversation was the scene in the compact kitchen of Mrs. Vincent Haase, route 2, Neenah, Wednesday morning.

Seven pairs of homemaker leaders mixed apricots and pecans, green peppers and cheese, crabmeat and eggs and a host of other combinations for a training session on "Savory Sandwiches."

Conducted by Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent, the session was designed to introduce appetizing sandwiches for snacks, suppers, school lunches, teas and parties.

Briefing Session

A briefing session on preparation, ingredients, types of bread and freezing sandwiches preceded the work period. Tips for easy sandwich making included buying ready-sliced bread, keeping a variety of bread and rolls on hand and using the two slices of bread that lie next to each other in the loaf so the sandwiches will have even edges and be easier to cut and wrap.

Use soft butter and spread all slices of bread at one time, being careful to spread it evenly to the edges of the bread. Prepare sandwich fillings in advance, keeping a variety on hand. Spread like fillings on alternate rows of bread with a flexible bladed spatula, suggested Miss Klusmeyer.

Stack two or three sandwiches and cut them all at once with a sharp bread knife. Label and wrap each sandwich individually to prevent odors from mingling.

Sandwich Loaf

An egg, crabmeat and almond sandwich loaf was prepared by Mrs. Kenneth Bunn and Mrs. Henry Malchow. Ingredients were one 3-ounce package cream cheese, two tablespoons milk, two tablespoons chopped, toasted almonds, one chopped hard-boiled egg, one-fourth cup flaked crabmeat, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, two tablespoons mayonnaise, one teaspoon lemon juice, three lengthwise slices whole wheat bread, cut from an unsliced sandwich loaf, and one-fourth cup soft butter.

Combine cream cheese, milk and almonds. Combine chopped egg, crabmeat, celery salt, mayonnaise and lemon juice. Spread each side of bread with butter. Spread cheese-almond mixture on one section of bread, top with second slice and spread egg-crabmeat mixture on second slice, topping with the third slice of bread, buttered side down. Press loaf together gently. Wrap in wax paper, twisting ends of paper and chill. The recipe makes 32 egg, crabmeat, almond sandwich bars.

Tea Sandwich

A tea sandwich with an apricot-pecan filling was made by Mrs. E. A. Nelson and Mrs. Spencer Breitreiter. The recipe requires 8 ounces softened cream cheese, two tablespoons mayonnaise, one-half cup finely chopped pecans, two teaspoons grated orange peel, one-half cup chopped dried apricots and 12 slices whole wheat or enriched sandwich bread.

Combine the ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Trim crusts from bread slices and spread with mixture. Cut each slice into four open-face finger sandwiches. The recipe makes 48 finger sandwiches.

Open Face

Mrs. Flairie Bentle and Mrs. Ray Godschalk prepared a hot open face sandwich. Combine one-fourth cup chopped cucumber pickle with one cup grated American cheese. Add three tablespoons mayonnaise. Slice one 12-ounce can luncheon meat one-fourth inch thick. Spread meat slices with cheese mixture and place on buttered bread. Broil until the cheese puffs. The recipe makes eight open sandwiches.

Mrs. Earl Austin prepared a Roquefort spread for rolled sandwiches. Combine one and one-fourth ounces Roquefort cheese, one-third package cream cheese, one-third teaspoon finely minced onion and one and one-half teaspoons chili sauce. Mash Roquefort and cream cheese and blend with onion and chili sauce.

For rolled sandwiches, cut fresh bread into thin slices, lengthwise of the loaf. Wrap in a damp cloth and let stand 15 to 20 minutes. Spread with creamed butter and a creamed or seasoned cheese. Roll each slice as you would a jelly roll. Wrap in waxed paper, then in a damp cloth and allow to stand before serving. Cut into thin slices.

Working in Paris, Neenah center homemakers leaders prepared a variety of "savory sandwiches" at a Wednesday training session at Mrs. Vincent Haase's home, route 2, Neenah. Above, mixing a cheese spread are Mrs. A. F. Salm and Mrs. Isaac Hart. Below, Mrs. Flairie Bentle places a tray of open face sandwiches into the oven.

PTA Unit Will Hear Author

Menasha — Ellis Whiting, Appleton, former high school teacher and author of "The Story of Life," will be guest speaker at the 7:30 p.m. Monday meeting of Nicolet school Parent-Teacher association.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting, open to the public. Plans will be made for an April 5 bake sale.

Committee members are Mrs. Harland King and Mrs. Roland Hanson.

Kimberly Girls Will Vacation On Father's Boat

Neenah — Miss Susan Kimberly, who attends Connecticut College for Women and Miss Deborah Kimberly, a student at Bradford Junior College will visit their father, James Kimberly, during their spring vacation.

Kimberly is living aboard his yacht, the 81 foot Curlew II docked at West Palm Beach, Florida. He recently purchased a 42 foot cruiser for deep sea fishing.

The Misses Kimberly, who attended the Winnebago Day school, Menasha, live with their mother, Mrs. John Jameson, Tucson, Ariz.

Kimberly has agreed to sponsor Chicago's Arden Shore dinner dance to be held at the Drake hotel, Nov. 5. Although Kimberly maintains a residence in Neenah, he also has an apartment in Chicago.

Radio Amateur

Menasha — Kenneth H. Suess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Suess, 705 Appleton street, is a member of the Radio Amateurs of Marquette which sponsors an open house to interest high school students in engineering.

The 12th annual engineering open house will be held March 26 at Marquette University. Suess is a senior in the engineering school and is majoring in electrical engineering.

Food Dollar Purchases More Than Groceries

Oshkosh — It may seem your food dollar is buying far less than 10 years ago. Yet today's food dollar goes for intangible services such as convenience, nutrition, cleanliness and sanitation as well as food, Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent points out.

There are more process and ready-to-serve foods which may seem to cost more but may not when you consider there is less waste and less time spent in preparation.

We don't buy food just to subsist on but because the family enjoys it. For example more expensive cuts of meat, lobster tail and fancy cheeses are bought simply because we like them.

Y Club Plans Style Show

Neenah — Y Mothers' club will hold its annual spring children's style show at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the YWCA.

The newest fashions for spring and summer will be modeled by children of club members. Committee members are Mrs. James Armstrong and Mrs. Albert Leverage.

Hoffmann's office by Clarence H. Ingram, 139 Main street, Menasha and Barbara Buksyk, route 2, Menasha.

Mrs. Elroy J. Bernes, the former Norma Jane Allen, was married in a double ring rite at St. John Catholic church Saturday. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Allen, 352 Grandview avenue, Menasha, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence J. Bernes, 912 Lincoln street, Menasha.

Zonta Names 4 Officers

Neenah — Mrs. Ruth Walter was elected president of Neenah-Menasha Zonta club Thursday evening. She succeeds Miss Delores Lippert, who will continue as general chairman of the fall district Zonta conference to be held in the Twin Cities in October. Delegates will attend the parley from clubs throughout the Midwest.

Miss Kathleen Worzalla was elected vice president and Miss Gertrude Bandelin, secretary. Miss Marguerite VanGorp was re-elected treasurer. Miss Lippert will remain on the board of directors with Mrs. Leona Wingen, Miss Lillian Lyon, Mrs. Helen Halpert and the four officers.

The March 16 dinner meeting will be held at Theda Clark Memorial hospital nurses home with Miss Bandelin, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Lobb and Mrs. Alma Powers in charge of arrangements.

New officers will be installed April 20. Items for patients at Winnebago State hospital will be brought to the May dinner meeting.

55 Attend Conclave In Omro

Neenah — About 55 American Legion auxiliary members attended the Winnebago County council dinner meeting Tuesday in Omro. Sixteen attended from Neenah and 14 from Menasha.

Mrs. Norman Campbell, Waukau, president of the Omro unit, the host group, extended the welcome. The program included an accordion band led by Mrs. Marvin Nussbaumer and musical selections by David Tritt and Duane Ayne Loker.

Mrs. William Killeen, Oshkosh, sixth district president, discussed membership and announced the junior spring conference will be held April 2 in Neenah. The auxiliary spring conclave is scheduled for April 26 in Ripon.

Mrs. Esther Rose, Oshkosh, welfare chairman, reported on valentine gifts given to Winnebago county hospital and county home, including a leather volleyball and net. She also reported on gifts for monthly parties at Sunnyview sanatorium.

Mrs. John Scanlon, Menasha, reported on the magazine drive. Mrs. A. Moore, Omro, was named vice president of the council. An anonymous donation of a walker for an invalid was given to the Neenah Legion unit to be used in this community.

The next council meeting will be June 7 at Legion-on-the-Lake, Oshkosh.

'Glass Menagerie'

Oshkosh — "The Glass Menagerie", selected by Oshkosh State college for its spring production, was the highlight of the 1944-45 season on Broadway. It received the New York Critics' award and brought distinction to Tennessee Williams, the playwright, and to its cast, which included Laurette Taylor, Eddie Dowling, Julie Haydon and Alan Ross.

The play is not realistic and employs the use of a transparent gauze curtain which contributes to the delicate and poetic quality. A musical score composed by Paul Bowles weaves its way in and out of the scenes to form a fragile background for the play. Both of these elements will be featured in the college production.

In keeping with the unrealistic quality of the play, director Gloria Link of the speech department has designed a sparse set of partial walls which suggest, more than describe, the fire escape landing and the shabby dining and living rooms of the play's setting.

Cast of the production includes Sue Michels, Oshkosh; Rick McIntyre, Appleton; Carol Kroll, New London; Tom McCain, Oshkosh. Stage manager will be Dave Marshall, Oshkosh.

The play will be presented March 17 and 18 in the college Little Theatre.

Neenah Buys Parking Site On Bond Street

Aldermen Allot $1,500 for July 4 Venetian Program

Neenah — The house and lot at 207 Bond street, just north of W. Forest avenue, were purchased by the Neenah council Wednesday night for $7,500. The site will be used to provide off-street parking and the cost will be taken from the parking meter receipts.

The aldermen also provided $1,500 to the Neenah - Menasha junior Chamber of Commerce for use in the July 4 Venetian-day program. This money is to provide $1,500 for fireworks and $500 toward the decorations.

With only Ald. Ewald Miller voting against the motion, the council authorized the building of a storm sewer between Reddin avenue and Baldwin street to the slough to relieve water conditions in that area. The action is contingent upon securing of easements.

Ald. Miller said he had brought up in the past several incidents of poor and inadequate drainage and nothing had been done. Consequently, he was going to vote against the motion as a protest.

Three Vote 'No'

Three aldermen, Peter Fara, Miller and Warren Sanders, voted "no" on a motion setting a maximum of $1,200 for the purchase of a piece of property at the Smith street and W. Columbian avenue intersection so that the city can proceed with the proposed resurfacing of W. Columbian avenue, Smith street and Torrey street.

Ald. Sanders contended the motion should be voted down as the city should obtain this land even if it has to pay more than $1,200. It was reported the owner asked $1,900 before.

He argued the work had been delayed long enough and a safety hazard would result if the land was not obtained. The street would have to curve and the sidewalk would be right along the street causing a snow removal problem.

It will put a bottleneck in a street designed for diverting traffic away from the downtown," Sanders continued as he said the city spends $10,000 to $15,000 for parking lots and balks at paying any more for this strip of land. "We should have the gumption to go ahead."

Narrow Street

Ald. Miller added that "if not put in property, we are spending money uselessly. The public will not take well to a narrow street."

Public Works Director Wayne G. Bryan said the street would have to curve about 3 degrees at the centerline if the land were not obtained and that the curb would be along the sidewalk. "We can maintain a 38 feet back to back width but the terrace will disappear."

Miller said the driver's vision would be obstructed if the land were not obtained and Sanders added that a car going out of control would jump the sidewalk and could hit a pedestrian since there would be no terrace.

Winneconne Chamber to Sponsor Races

Winneconne — The Winneconne Chamber of Commerce again this summer will sponsor the 1960 seventh division outdoor boat races. Entries will be attracted from seven states, said Hugo Ryf. No date has been set.

Charles Plummer and Duane Sweet of Courtney and Plummer of Neenah discussed prices and plans of a proposed municipal swimming pool and tennis court.

John Nierman announced purchase completion of the lot between the Martin Weller residence and the Standard station for future parking facilities.

Al Verkuilen was accepted as a new member.

The Rev. James Fyfe spoke at the men's guest night potluck supper Thursday evening by the United Presbyterian church women. The committee in charge included the Mrs. Glen Davey and Lysha Morgan, assisted by the Mrs. William Gould, James Fyfe, Otto Luedtke, Chaunce-ey Davey, William Mueller and George Cross.

The Women's Relief corps met for a luncheon Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lydia Henry. Hostesses were Mrs. Bert Abel and Mrs. Frank Morgan.

The former Miss Judith Ann Barr, was married Saturday to Thomas Edward Stolzman at Trinity Lutheran church, Menasha. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Barr, 111 S. Lake street, Neenah, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stolzman, Fremont.

Menasha — St. Patrick and Holy Name of Kimberly moved into the semi-finals of the seventh annual CYO basketball tournament with wins Thursday night.

The Shamrocks and Papermakers are joined in the field of four by Green Bay Annunciation and Sheboygan St. Clement. The latter two play at 8 p.m. tonight and the two Fox Cities foes open at 7 p.m.

St. Patrick had the easiest time of the four winners, besting Sacred Heart of Oshkosh 69-33. Kimberly scored a 58-57 overtime decision over Fond du Lac St. Mary. St. Clement nipped Appleton St. Mary 38-37 and Annunciation was a 68-62 victor over St. Paul of Manitowoc.

Rommel Scores 28

St. Patrick advanced to a 21-12 first quarter lead over its Oshkosh foe and then added 18 points in the third frame while limiting the losers to four. The score was 57-26 at the close of three periods.

Tom Rommel led the winners with 28 points. Rick Getschow and George Forcey each had 10. Paul Marks tallied nine for Oshkosh.

Kimberly trailed Fondy 17-11 at the quarter and 31-27 at halftime but had a 41-all tie at the close of three periods. Both teams scored 10 points in the fourth segment and Kimberly had a 7-8 edge in the extra session.

Leading Scorers

Jim Peerenboom garnered 27 points, Ken Kringel had 14 and Dave Freund 13 for Kimberly.

Three of the four teams which Neenah beat in non-conference play this season won regional games Thursday night. Ripon beat Horicon, Wisconsin Rapids won over New London and Appleton topped Kimberly. The lone exception was Fond du Lac which bowed to Kiel.

All three of Menasha's non-league foes won. In addition to Appleton, West De Pere won over East De Pere and Manitowoc vanquished Valders. Of the St. Mary foes, Milwaukee North beat Milwaukee East and Preble lost to West Green Bay while Wayland academy won over North western of Watertown in a Midwest league tournament tilt.

Titans, Knights Clash for Berth In NAIA Meet

Dibelius Paces Oshkosh Scorers With 562 Points

Oshkosh — Oshkosh State's first national basketball berth in the school's history will be at stake when it meets St. Norbert college here at 8 p.m. tonight.

The winner will enter the field of 32 teams in the NAIA tournament which will get underway at Kansas City, Mo., next Monday. Oshkosh was voted into the playoff by a poll of Wisconsin State college conference officials after it tied Platteville and Eau Claire for second place. Champion Milwaukee will go to the NCAA small college meet.

St. Norbert bested Northland college Wednesday night in a playoff of independent colleges.

Ron Dibelius, who has broken series just about every Titan scoring mark is averaging almost 27 points per game with his 562 points. Denny Sommers is next with 263 points, followed by "Whitey" Kaufman with 216. Dean Austin 204, Jim Lettenberger 146, Gordy Selbach 92, John Stark 63 and Bob Karisyn 68.

The Knights, with the addition of Ron Brault and John Koprowski, former Two Rivers stars, are greatly improved and have 10 wins in their last 11 starts. Menasha's Al Wisneski will hold down one of the starting guard spots.

Two Semi-Finals, Consolation Fray On Tonight's Card

Neenah — Two semi-finals and a consolation game make up tonight's program in the Winnebago county rural grade school basketball tournament at the Spring Road school.

The consolation bracket game will match Clayton against Oakwood at 6:45. Lakeview, winner over Clayton last week, meets Lakeside in a semi-final test at 7:45. Lakeside, unbeaten champion in the rural grade league, drew a first round bye.

The final game will match Spring Road, victor over Oakwood, and Tullar, conqueror of Sunset.

The championship game is set for 8 p.m. Saturday with the consolation test, pairing Sunset against the Clayton-Oakwood winner, slated for 7 p.m.

Two Fined for Topsy Driving

Appleton Men Will Lose Licenses; One Changes His Plea

Two Appleton men have been fined and will lose their drivers' licenses for a year after pleading guilty to drunk-driving charges.

Fined were Robert P. Rohloff, 35, of 165 Gardner's Row, and Ronald W. Abendroth, 23, of 1810 S. Walden avenue.

Rohloff was fined $125 by Police Justice Arthur J. Ales Thursday afternoon at Menasha. He changed his plea from innocent to guilty. He was arrested Feb. 24 on Appleton road after pursuit by two Menasha police cars. He was arraigned and pleaded innocent that day.

Police reported Rohloff, who tested .21 on the drunkometer, was driving across the center line of Main street while eastbound. He turned north on Racine street, ignored the red light at Third street and turned eastward. In that block, a policeman stopped Rohloff and advised him to go home via taxicab. Rohloff refused and drove away. The squad driver summoned the other car by radio.

Abendroth was fined $100 in Appleton municipal court this morning. He was arrested by Appleton police on E. Calumet street when the car he was driving struck a utility pole this morning. He did not take a drunkometer test.

Bear Market Continues

Losses Again Range From Fractions To About 2 Points

New York — Selling pressure increased early this afternoon as the stock market resumed its decline following Thursday's "bear market signal" given according to the Dow theory.

Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points were taken by key stocks.

Space age issues dropped from 1 to 4 points.

The decline of the Dow Jones rail average to a new 1959-60 low Thursday "confirmed" an earlier drop by the industrials, thus signaling a bear market, according to the Dow theory which is respected by many Wall Streeters.

The overall decline put the Associated Press average at noon down to its lowest point since December, 1958.

Steels, motors, rails, utilities, chemicals and electrical equipments retreated on a broad front. A few stocks here and there managed to hold slight gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.69 to 608.36.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.10 to 211.50 with the industrials down 1.40, the rails down 1.20 and the utilities down .50.

Long range U.S. government bonds posted solid gains.

Charlie Tells True Story of How Newspaperman's Hunch Pays Off

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Although intelligent people do not readily believe in the magic powers which come, from time to time, to some people, I would like to tell a story today about a hunch.

In older days of the newspaper world — days not very long gone — most newsmen knew and understood the value of a hunch.

Strong hunches were in the bag of skills and wisdoms which every newspaperman had. A hunch and a "nose for news" were part of the stock in trade of every good newsman.

The word "hunch" drives from an old superstition of gamblers that it was lucky to touch the hump of a hunchback. Later as a colloquialism it came to mean an intuitive feeling.

This is the true story of a newspaperman's hunch.

Special Job

One day during the winter of 1944 and 1945 the Milwaukee Sentinel hired a very special man for a very special job. The man was William S. Broker, now deceased, who was an old newsman who had handled every run, every beat, and every desk on Milwaukee newspapers.

His news and editorial judgment was well trained. His knowledge of local and state history was superb and thorough. And he knew everybody in the city who was newsworthy.

Broker had to be good for the job because it was a difficult one. He had been hired to thin out the picture files of the newspaper.

Authorities had been concerned over the huge picture file and the room which was required to contain it. It was known that there were many pictures within it which were valueless and could be discarded. Broker was to go through the file and determine which could be destroyed and which returned to the files.

Broker had to call upon his fine judgment for every picture he scanned.

Some Stay, Others Go

Here, for example, there was a picture of a tree planting ceremony of 15 years before. Should it be destroyed or retained? Bill considered that this one should be kept because the tree had grown to be a good one and it was in an important part of downtown Milwaukee.

Besides, one of the youths in the picture had become an outstanding attorney. Hence, the picture may one day have some value: not much, perhaps, but some. Broker returned the picture to the files.

And there, for example, was a picture of a lady who had been a telephone operator in a local bank. The picture was concerned with her retirement from the job 14 years earlier. When Broker last, Broker went home and to bed.

Next morning Broker got out of bed and went to the breakfast table. He unfolded his copy of that morning's paper and read the lead story.

Prisoner Escapes

That story was concerned with a prisoner of the state penitentiary who had been sent to Wisconsin General Hospital for medical treatment. He had escaped and was at large.

Next to the story on Page 1 was a head shot of the criminal — a picture which Broker well recognized as that of Charles "Fuzzie" Carney.

Great Mexican Comic Stars in American Film

'Pepe' His First Hollywood Movie, Also in Todd Epic

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — (AP) — The matador was resident in his brocade costume—athletic-looking king, a handsome figure except for two features:

An outrageous mustache dropped over the corners of his mouth.

His pants hung perilously on his hips. As any Latin could tell you, these are the trade marks of the great Mexican comic Cantinflas, and they are being employed for the first time by a Hollywood studio. He has made only one non-Mexican film, "Around the World in 80 Days," produced by the late Maverick Mike Todd.

The new film is an all-star Columbia epic called "Pepe." Cantinflas was being directed by George Sidney in a bullfight fantasy against a plain backdrop. Later, cartoon figures will be drawn in. Between scenes, I asked Cantinflas (real name: Mario Moreno) why he had taken so long to tie up with Hollywood.

One film a year. "Stories," he replied. "It is very hard for me to get the right stories. That is why I make only one picture a year in Mexico. What I do is limited, and I have a whole crew of writers working all the time."

"I had a deal to make a picture for RKO a long time ago—maybe 15 years. But they assigned the wrong writer to the story."

Of course, another reason for his absence is that he does not need Hollywood. Cantinflas has long controlled his own films and he is one of the richest men in the hemisphere (his benefactions are also on a big scale).

In Bullfights

Besides one film of his own a year, Cantinflas said he helps supervise eight or nine others for his Posa films. He makes no theater appearances, but he still does a half-dozen bullfights yearly. A Author James Thurber sits backstage with the stars of his "Thurber Carnival" after the show opened on Broadway this week. From the left are Paul Ford, Peggy Cass, Thurber and Tom Ewell.

Cantinflas bullfight is a rare exhibit of comedy and daring. I recall one in Tijuana, at which producer Todd nearly had a fit watching his star endangering himself.

"I'm still scared to death when I do the bullfight," the actor admitted. "Bullfighting is the most dangerous profession in the world. You can never tell what the bull is going to do."

KVS Begins Planning for Annual March Open House

Kaukauna — Plans are underway for the annual open house at the Kaukauna School of Vocational and Adult education, scheduled for 1 to 5 p.m. March 20.

Included will be exhibits of projects made during 20 weeks of adult classes and a style show at 3:15 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Clothing made in the seven clothing classes will be modeled by those who made the garments and by children of adult students.

Vocational school classrooms and shops will be used for exhibits which will include projects from the home-making, trades and industry and general adult classes. The open house is annually one of the highlights of the school year and attracts hundreds of visitors.

Instructors will be present to explain the objectives of their teaching, the course content and explain results of their teaching by showing the finished products. Demonstrations will be given by students in the hospitality foods classes, fashion design, use of the automatic machines and lapidary and jewelry classes. Members of the Homemakers clubs will serve as hostesses.

Hunch Starts Working

Broker walked downstairs and waited for his street car. But, the Carney picture disturbed him and he did not know why. His judgment had been good, he was sure. Why then should this uncomfortable feeling come to him?

"I guess it's a hunch," he said to himself, grinning. Then he went back into the building, hauled the picture out of the waste basket and returned it to the file. At

PAY MORE? FOR WHAT?

For more room maybe? You'll never need it. Valiant's got room for a family of six and their luggage. Could be it's 'spunk you're after? Valiant's got that too, from a 101 horsepower inclined engine that's got an extraordinarily light touch with a gallon of regular. Looks, we won't even mention. You could pay twice the price and not even come close to the "Valiant Look." And all the money in a miser's sock can't buy a fully-unitized body that's rust-proofed and rattle-proofed the way Valiant's is. Something else about Valiant you're really going to like, the alternator electrical system. You'd pay a pretty penny to get it anywhere else. On Valiant it's standard equipment. What does it do? It makes your battery last longer, much longer. Because it charges even at idle. Beginning to get the answer to our question? Sure! So why even think about paying more, when Valiant has it all? At your Plymouth-Valiant dealer's.

Good looks that will last. The entire body, inside and out, is armored against rust.

A vacation-sized trunk, 25 cubic feet and all of them loadable.

Torsion-Aire suspension takes all the guff a tough piece of road can hand out. Soaks up bumps...so you don't have to.
